DELIVER AMERICAN NOTE TO GERMANY

Believe German Answer Will Forestall Any Possibility of War

GIVES OUT STATEMENT

Bryan Asserts Note Was Materially Revised Following Presentation of His Resignation

PRESIDENT PLANS VACATION

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Official announcement of the delivery of the American note to the German government reiterating insistence that submarine warfare conform to the laws of humanity and international law was received today from Ambassador Gerard at Berlin. The message came at the close of a day marked by a more optimistic feeling in official quarters that the German answer would forestall any possibility of war between the nations and also avoid a breach of diplomatic relations.

President Plans Vacation.

Apparently there was a general relaxation of tension in the international situation. President Wilson spent part of the day at golf and let it be known that later in the month he planned to take a short vacation at his summer home in Cornish, N. H. No answer to the American rejoined is expected for ten days at least and there is conviction here that the Berlin authorities will await the arrival there of Meyer Gerhard, personal representative of Ambassador Von Bernstorff before their answer is made.

Bryan States Note Was Revised.

Former Secretary Bryan issued another statement late today declaring the note was materially revised following the presentation of his resignation. The revision Mr. Bryan averred, softened the note but was not sufficient to have justified him in withdrawing his resignation.

"As Germany had suggested arbitration I felt that we should not do less than reply to this offer by expressing a willingness to apply the principle of the peace treaties to the case," said he.

Mr. Bryan refused to discuss the change in the note. Secretary Lansing also declined to discuss changes made in the note.

Replies to Inconsistency Charges.

In his statement tonight Mr. Bryan replied to published charges of inconsitency because he signed the first note following the Lusitania incident and refused to sign the second.

"The notes," he said, "must be considered in connection with the conditions under which they were sent. The first note presented the case of this government upon such evidence as we then had. It was like the plaintiff's statement in a case, his claim being based upon the facts as he presents them. I did not agree entirely with the language of the first note, but the differences were not so material as to justify a refusal to sign it. Then, too, I was at that time hoping that certain things would be done which would make it easier for Germany to acquiesce in our demands.

Unwilling to Assume Responsibility.

"No one will be happier than I if the president's plan results in a peaceful settlement but no one was in a position to say what effect our note would have upon Germany or what results would follow if she in anger broke off diplomatic relations and I was not only unwilling to assumet he responsibility for the risks incurred—risks which no one could with any degre of accuracy measure—but I felt that, having done all I could in the cabinet, it was my duty to undertake, outside the cabinet, the duty upon which I have entered. I have no doubt that the country will unanimously support the president during the war if so great a misfortune should over take us, but I believe that the chances of war will be lessened in proportion as the country expresses itself in favor of peace—not 'peace at any price'—but peace in preference to a war waged for the redress of such grievances as we have against Germany—at least against war until we have given to Germany the opportunity which we are pledged to give Great Britain, France and Russia—to have every difference of every character submitted to an international commission of investigation."

The former secretary with Mrs. Bryan left tonight for Old Point Comfort, to remain until Tuesday. Upon his return Mr. Bryan expects to announce his plans for the immediate future.

TEXT OF NOTE IS PUBLISHED IN BERLIN

STATEMENT AS TO GOVERNMENT'S ATTITUDE NOT YET AVAILABLE

Document Seems to Have Made a Distinctly Favorable Impression—Conciliatory Tone Evokes a Responsive Attitude.

Berlin, June 12, via London, June 13—The text of the American note was published today in the Berlin afternoon papers. Definite statements as to the attitude of the German government with respect to the note are not yet available but in circles which, while themselves not officially responsible are often good barometers of the sentiment in responsible quarters, the note seems to have made a distinctly favorable impression and is believed to offer the possibility of negotiations on which a satisfactory settlement might be reached.

Evokes Responsive Attitude.

The conciliatory tone of the note apparently has evoked a responsive attitude here. Individuals who in the earlier stages of the negotiations displayed stiffnecked adherence to their own views, which made discussion almost impossible, are now willing to talk of compromises which the compromise would not be all on one side. The official viewpoint probably can be correctly appraised after conferences of the imperial chancellor, Dr. Von Berthmann-Hollweg the foreign secretary Herr Von Jagow and representatives of the army and admiralty, the naval and general staff. The emperor, it is believed, will speak the final word.

To Begin Confreences at Once.

It is understood that these conferences will begin immediately. The answer will certainly not be drafted and the lines of the German policy probably will not be definitely decided upon before Dr. Anton Meyer Gerhard, the special envoy from Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador at Washington, has arrived and made his report. Both the Lokal Anzeiger and the Vissische Zeitung hail the second American note as opening the way for further negotiations between Germany and the United States which both profess to believe will straighten out the situation. The papers admit that the note contains little that is new but they rejoice at its friendly tone.

DU PONT PURCHASES MAJORITY OF CAPITAL STOCK OF THE EQUITABLE

NEW YORK, June 12.—Announcement was made here today that the majority of the capital stock of the Equitable Assurance society of the United States had been sold by the executors of the estate of the late J. The Equitable Life Assurance society was organized in 1859 and will have been in business for fifty-six years on July 26th, next. The fire of Jan. 9, 1912, drove it from its offices in the old Equitable building. On April 26th of the present year it re-opened its offices at the old stand in the New Equitable building.

TAKE GERMAN BELIEVED WANTED IN NEW YORK

ATTEMPT TO QUESTION PRISONER AS HIS KNOWLEDGE OF STAHL

Harderberg is Thought to Be Wanted in Connection With investigation Into the Lusitania Disaster—Is Taken to Washington.

Cincinnati, O., June 12—Henz Hardenberg, said to be a member of the aviation corps of the German Imperial Army, who is believed to be wanted in connection with the investigation into the Lusitania disaster by the special federal grand jury in New York City, was taken into custody here today by special agents of the department of justice.

Hardenberg was taken into custody when he, in company with his employer, Paul Haase, a soap and perfume manufacturer of Norwood, a suburb of this city, called at the general delivery window at the postoffice to inquire for mail.

Within an hour Special Agent Menefee of Cincinnati left with Hardenberg for Washington, where the latter will be turned over to the officials of the state department and the department of justice

Immediately after being taken into custody an attempt was made to question Hardenberg as to his knowledge of Gustave Stahl of New York, one of the men now before the federal grand jury there on the charge of sworn to a false affidavit lodged with the German embassy and later transmitted to the state department at Washington to the effect that the Lusitania was a warship and that it had four guns on its deck when it sailed from New York on its last voyage.

COMPLAINT CHARGES JUDGE BEN B. LINDSEY WITH CONTEMPT

Action Grows Out of Refusal to Tell What Neal Wright Told Him About Shooting of Father.

Denver, Colo., June 12.—Judge Ben B. Lindsey of the juvenile court is charged with contempt of court in a complaint filed in district court today by John Rush, district attorney. Judge John Perry has cited Judge Lindsey to appear before him June 15th.

This action grew out of the refusal of Judge Lindsey to reveal on the witness stand last week what Neal Wright, 17 year old son of Mrs. Bertha Wright, had told about the fatal shooting last winter of Mrs. Wright's husband. Mrs. Wright, charged with the murder was acquitted. The son testified, that he, not his mother, did the shooting, which occurred after a series of family quarrels.

The prosecution contends Judge Lindsey has information controverting the boy's testimony.

CARRANZA SENDS REPLY TO WARNING

Asserts Right of Constitutionalist Government to Recognition

VILLA REPLY IN CAPITAL

Answer of Northern Mexican Leader Is Not Delivered at State Department

DECLINE TO GIVE OUT TEXT

WASHINGTON, June 12.—President Wilson had before him tonight the first reply to his recent statementment regarding Mexico. It consisted of a lengthy "proclamation to the people" issued yesterday by General Carranza asserting the right of the constitutionalist government to recognition by the United States and other foreign governments.

Lack of Recognition One Difficulty.

Lack of recognition is declared to be the one difficulty remaining in the way of restoring constitutional government in Mexico and the statement asserts: "At this time we believe ourselves to be in a position to overcome this last difficulty because the constitutionalist government now is actually in definite possession of sovereignty and the legitimate exercise of sovereignty is the essential condition which should be taken into account when deciding upon recognition of a government."

Villa's Answer is Not Delivered.

General Villa's answer also reached Washintgon today but was not delivered at the state department. Until it is presented the Villa agency declined to make public the text. Officials of the department declined to comment on the obstract of the Villa statement carried in press despatches or upon a copy of a letter from Villa to Carranza, also received at the agency, which urges that differences be forgotten and suggests a personal meeting between the two leaders to arrange for cooperation and the restoration of peace.

General Carranza's proclamation was promptly laid before President Wilson and state deparment officials would not discuss it. The document recites the history of the revolution through five years and asserts the length of the revolution is due to attempt at compromise with the elements of the old regime at Ciudad Juarez.

Explains Madero's Failure.

President Madero's failure, the document attributes to the opposition from Orozco, Reyes and Felix Diaz of the old regime and Zapata, instigated by their adherents.

General Huerta, it explains, consummated the movement with the co-operation of a group of foreigners favored by the old regime who surrounded Henry Lane Wilson, former American ambassador to Mexico, under the pretext of saving Mexico City from war.

The statement then explains that as governor of the state of Coahuila, General Carranza assumed representation of the republic in accordance with the constitution which by its own terms "will not lose its force and vigor even though through some rebellion, its observance is interrupted."

Controls Seven-Eights of Nation.

The schism of Villa and his followers, which later occurred, the statement attributes to the further intrigue of the old regime. Although it was thought the constitutionalist element had lost the support of the people when they withdrew from Mexico City, the statement asserts, in fact it now has control of over seven-eights of the national territory. Administrations, it is claimed, are being organized in twenty out of twenty-seven states of the republic and the Vera Cruz government controls all the ports of the gulf and Pacific ocean, with the exception of Guaymas and all ports of entry on the northern and southern frontiers with the exception of Piedras Negras, Ciudad Juarez and Nogales; that more than thirteen million of the fifteen million population of Mexico are subject to constitutionalist authority. Opposition to the Carranza forces, it is asserted, is day by day by day decreasing and offensive of the enemy is limited to acts of brigandage. In a short time occupation of Mexico City is assured, it was stated when harmonious government will be secured in all states and territories based on welfare and justice.

CALL ON WOMEN WORKERS TO PROTEST.

New York, June 12—A resolution calling on all organized women workers to protest against any attempt to embroil this country in the European war or to involve it in armed intervention in Mexico was passed here today at the final session of the Biennial Convention of the National Woman's Trade league. The session asked President Wilson and congress to place an embargo upon the exportation of arms and ammunition from the United States to any other country.

War News Summarized

German opinion as reflected in the German newspapers and by expressions from unofficial quarters, appears to have been favorably impressed with the latest American note which it is believed in Berlin, opens the way for further negotiations regarding the Lusitania question and submarine warfare generally.

The Italian campaign, according to latest advices, is progressing satisfactorily in the view of the Italian war office. The Austrian frontier town of Gradisca is in the possession of the Italian forces who in this direction have Gorizia as their objective. The important towns of Rovereto and Mori only a short distance from Trent, have already been taken by the Italians or are on the point of being occupied and the advance all along the Austro-Italian frontier is being pushed with energy.

TURK CRUISER IS DAMAGED IN DUEL WITH RUSS DESTROYER

Petrograd Asserts Cruiser was Struck by Several Shots, That an Explosion was Heard Aboard and That Fire was Seen at Her Bow.

Petrograd, via London, June 13.—The Turkish Cruiser Midullu, formerly the German Cruiser Breslau, was damaged, just how severely is not known, in an artillery duel with a Russian torpedo boat destroyer near the Bosphorus Friday night, according to a Russian official statement. It is stated that the erduiser was struck by several shots, that an explosion was heard aboard and that fire was seen at her bow.

The text of the statement follows:

"Near the Bosphorus on the night of June 10-11 two Russian destroyers encountered the Breslau, whose searchlights lit up our turbine destroyer which immediately attacked the enemy. The sharpest of artillery duels ensued. Several shots struck the cruiser an explosion was heard aboard it and she was afire at the bow. Owing to the darkness it was impossible to ascertain for a certainty the extent of the damage inflicted on the enemy.

"An officer and six men were wounded aboard the destroyer which attacked the Breslau."

INTENSE HEAT IN AUSTRIA OCCASIONS MUCH ANXIETY

ZURICH, Switzerland, June 12,—(via London, June 13—The intense heat prevailing in Austria-Hungary added to the drought suffered since the end of April, is occasioning much anxiety in military and agricultural departments of the dual monarchy regarding harvest prospects. The fear is expressed that unless rain comes very soon, the gain crops will suffer considerably. Serious riots, necessitating the intervention of the police have occurred in the Budapest markets, according to reports from that city. The public, angered by the prices demanded, attacked butchers and provision shops, it is stated, and beat the dealers and trampled their stocks under foot.

The prices of flour and meat in Hungary are higher than in Vienna or Berlin. Beef has quadrupled in price and costs eighty cents a pound. Veal and pork are equally dear.

PAPERS COMMENT ON NOTE DIFFERENTLY

Rome, June 2—via London, June 12.—The American note to Germany is commented on differently by the various papers here. The Tribuna says: "The United States, the greatest neutral nation, has with this document assumed a special role, that is the defense of not a particular group or interest but the interest of civil humanity to guard and have those principles of common right, which above any particular right constitute the sacred patrimony of humanity."

ORDNANCE OFFICIALS FACE SERIOUS PROBLEM

MANY HIGHLY TRAINED CIVIL EMPLOYES LEAVE U.S. ARSENALS

Accept Extraordinary Advances in Pay From Private Arms and Ammunition Factories—Officials look Up Law.

Washington, June 12.—Ordnance officials of the United States artillery it was learned today are faced with a serious problem because of the number of highly trained civil employes at government arsenals who have gone to private arms and ammunition factories since the European war began. These men have been offered extraordinary advances in pay by molders of huge contracts with the belligerent governments, and several commissioned officers, experts in ordnance manufacture have also gone into private employment. The result has been to threaten embarrassment in keeping the American army properly supplied, it is said.

Officials of the department it was learned, have been looking over the law to see what can be done to retain its trained men. The officers can, of course, be held by not accepting their resignations. It is also found that in 1800 when complications with France threatened, a statute was enacted providing a fine of $50 and imprisonment for three months for any person seeking to induce an employe of a government arsenal to leave that employment during the life of his contract with the government.

The statute has never been repealed but no attempt has been made to invoke it within the memory of any living man.

ADMIRAL FULLAM MAY BE DRAWN FURTHER INTO PROCEEDINGS

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 12.—That Rear Admiral Fullam, superintendent of the naval academy probably will be drawn further into the proceedings before the court of inquiry investigating irregularities in connection with examination papers was indicated by today's testimony.

Presidents of three classes of midshipmen gave practically the same testimony to the effect that at a conference with the superintendent after seven midshipmen had been recommended by him for dismissal for cheating in examinations, Admiral Fullman said if the navy department did not back him up in the matter of previous investigation he would be inclined to resign. He further remarked that he would rather go to sea in command of a collier than stay at Annapolis under such circumstances. There were four presidents and a president-elect of the new first class present at this conference.

DUNNE SPEAKS AT CELEBRATION OF WATERWAY BILL'S PASSAGE

PEORIA, June 12.—Governor Dunne of Illinois, Mayor Keil of St. Louis, Mayor Beall of Alton and Col. C. E. The ceremonies were marked by the christening of the new Steamer Peoria, destined for Peoria-New Orleans trade. In his address Governor Dunne said:

"This great waterway will be a reality in less than two years and from its beginning we expect to see it carry a tonnage equal to that of the Rhine in Germany."

ASSERTS ACTION OF U. S. DEVELOPS NEW PHASE.

Buenos Ayres, June 12.—Asserting that prior to the despatch of the latest note to Germany the United States consulted the chancellories of the South American countries, the Razon in an editorial says that the action of the United States develops a new phase because the results which the humanitarianism of President Wilson seeks will be obtained.

FOLLOW PHASES OF DISCUSSION WITH INTEREST

Rio Janeiro, June 12.—The Rio Janeiro papers are following with lively interest the various phases of the German American discussion. They approve the calm and energetic attitude of President Wilson. The Gazetto De Noticias says:

BIG BATTLE RAGES ALONG DNEISTER

Teutons Still Have Lemberg as Objective—Expect Heavy Fighting

FRENCH ATTACK IN WEST

Fighting Is Almost Continuous Along Line from the Sea to Champagne

ITALIANS CARRY OFFENSIVE

LONDON, June 12—Another big battle is being fought along the line of the Dniester river in Galicia, in which the forces of Russia are pitted against those of Austria and Germany. Those German troops which had crossed the Dniester at Zurawna having bene driven back and the Russians in eastern Galicia and Bukowina also having been forced to withdraw to the river, the two armies now face one another across the wide and crooked stream, each making thrusts in an effort to gain the initative for an offensive.

The Austrians in their official report claim to have succeeded in crossing the river to the east of Horodenka, a movement which, in view of their recent experience near Zurawna, might prove dangerous.

Have Lemberg as Objective.

The Austro-Germans, however, still have Lemberg as their objective and they are not likely to allow any reverses they have suffered near Zurawna and east of Przemysl to put them off. So that fighting as severe as any witnessed in recent weeks may be expected during the next few days.

Heavy fighting also continues in the Baltic provinces and on the east Prussian frontier, in which both sides claim advantages. With the view, doubtless of preventing the Russians from sending reinforcements to either of their wings, the Germans yesterday delivered an attack along the Rawka river between Bolimow and Zochaczew, the scene of important battles last winte when the Germans tried to reach Warsaw by the direct route from the west. In yesterday's attack the Germans claim to have broken into the Russian positions and to have taken 5,000 prisoners.

French Continue Attacks.

At various points between Rheims and north of Arras, the French continue their attacks which they report to have been successful, but which the Germans on the other hand invariably state have been repulsed.

Although no big forward movemein has been made the fighting is almost continuous along the line from the sea to Champagne and in the Woevre. British and Belgians, although they are not doing much attacking, are playing an important role in these operations, for to them falls the task of holding large German forces on their front by threatening an offensive and thus preventing the Germans from sending relief to those troops which the French are assailing.

Italians Score Success

The Italians have scored another success on the Isonzo river by the capture of the town of Gradisca and it is reported that they are carrying out a strong offensive all along the river as far up as Tolmino, which they are endeavoring to outflank.

Unofficial reports state that the allies are making steady progress on the Gallipoli peninsula, but no details are given and official confirmation is lacking.

Today's report of German submarine activity shows that one steamer and three trawlers were sunk. Since Saturday last, German submarines have sunk fifty-four vessels, of which seven were neutral. The other comprised two French, two Belgian, three Russian and forty British. Of the British vessels thirty-two were fishing craft. In addition two fishing smacks were sunk by a Zeppelin.

President Wilson is planning for a well earned vacation of a few days, the latter part of this month at his summer home, Cornish, N. H. That certainly looks like the nation's chief executive is feeling sanguine about the outcome of the controversy with Germany.

Magna Charta Day.

The part that the Church of England took in the extortion of the Magna Charta, "The Great Charter of English Liberty," from unwilling King John at Runnymede, will be the topic of sermons in the Episcopal churches of the United States today. The Protestant Episcopal Church, as the daugater and heir of the Church of England, whose rights and privileges and freedom were so strongly sown in that immortal instrument, will celebrate the 700th anniversary. The anniversary of the famous event in the cause of liberty is made especially dear to the Episcopal church because the Archbishop of Canterbury, Stephen Langton, was the first of the signers at Runnymede on the Thames. In addition to special sermons in the churches, felicitations are being cabled to the successor of Langton, Archbishop Randall Davidson.

Listing the City's Creditors.

No announcement has yet been made of any plan the city council may have for meeting the financial conditions, though from time to time the mayor and various commissioners indicate that the matter is receiving careful consideration, and that it is the expectation that some plan for taking care of past and future obligations may be announced. As stated some time ago, Commissioner Widmayer has been busy compiling a complete list of the city's indebtedness and he has also adopted the plan of insisting that all bills against the city be filed each month. This order was made in the commendable endeavor of keeping a close tab on the city's exact financial status from month to month.

More recently Mr. Widmayer has adopted the plan of opening a ledger account with each merchant or firm having a bill against the city. In a small loose leaf ledger he has a page devoted to each such merchant or firm and whenever a bill is filed it will be entered on the merchant's or firm's account page in this book. When a bill is allowed and a warrant issued in payment, then the proper entry will be made in the book so indicating. This plan it is believed will save a great deal of time in running through accounts to find if bills have been previously filed and will also save confusion in the payment of bills. By glancing at any page in this little ledger it is now possible to tell the total amount the city is indebted to any one of its creditors and of course a total of these separate totals indicates the entire amount of the city's floating indebtedness other than salaries and wages.

Approves Both Wilson and Bryan.

A well known Springfield Democrat who is evidently an admirer and friend of both Pres. Wilson and Bryan a day or two since wrote the following interesting comment of Mr. Bryan's resignation.

Who are you for—Wilson or Bryan? It is perhaps very fortunate that Bryan has resigned, considered from the standpoint of humanity in general. No person in the world has perhaps been so prominent in advocating peace and devising ways and means to promote it than has Bryan and to have the country adopt a war policy or negotiate in terms looking toward it while Bryan is in a position of such direct responsibility would not only be a stultification of himself, but would tend to discredit all the work he has done in the past, and give it the appearance of mere sentiment and ideality that has no place in practical administration and would be a blow and iscouragement to the peace movement which it would require years of diplomacy and education to recover from. The tenor of the note of resignation and also of acceptance are presented in a fine spirit of brotherhood and patriotism. Surely, there never were two more sincere men in Washington than Wilson and Bryan. While it seems to me that Bryan did the consistent thing and undoubtedly promoted the larger good by his resignation, at the same time, I believe it might be consistently said that Wilson's policy is the wise and practical one for him to pursue. Of course. We have not yet learned the substance of the last note to Germany. As to the effect on the political future of the two men, that is entirely a matter of chance depending on the fortunes of politics. It can easily be conceived how this disagreement may be the basis of leadership for either one. I have interviewed a number of people on the street out of curosity and I find sentiment pretty evenly divided so far as I have been able to get expressions.

Mrs. Rexroat was the youngest of the family and yet the first of the children to be called by death. Her mother passed away several years ago and her father, two years ago. She is also survived by five nieces, two nephews and one great niece, and scores of friends. The community extends sympathy to the family in their great sorrow and commends them to Him who said, "My Grace is Sufficient for Thee".

Funeral services were conducted from the M. E. church Thursday afternoon at two o'clock in charge of Rev. Anna Shively, a life long friend of the deceased. Rev. W. P. Bowman and Rev. Mr. Cain assisted in the services. The church was filled to overflowing, many friends coming from a distance. The floral offerings were very beautiful.

Rev. Mrs. Shively took for her text, "She Hah Done What She Could". The remains were laid to rest in the beautiful cemetery at Arcadia beside her father and mother, at the request of the deceased.

Referendum in Springfield.

City Commissioner Roy Reece of Springfield was among visitors in Jacksonville Saturday. Mr. Reece said that it is entirely likely that the referendum election talked of in Springfield with the purpose of transferring the license giving authority from the commissioner of public health and safety to the mayor will be held. Petitions have been in circulation for some days with the expectation of bringing this matter to a vote and practically all of the necessary signatures have been secured.

It is the argument of Mayor Bauman's friends that the commissioner of public health and safety has so many duties in connection with the police and fire departments that a better plan of city management will be to give over to the mayor the countrol of saloons They argue also that Mayor Bauman's rather strict ideas of saloon management are in accord with general public sentiment in Springfield. Mr. Reece's contention is that the matter of saloon control is so closely related to police affairs that it would not be proper to take it out of his department, and he insists moreover that there has been nothing thus far in his administration of affairs to warrant the assumption that he will not insist upon a proper observance of the law in accordance with the sentiment of Springfield people.

It must be remembered in this connection that Springfield is not classed as a Sunday school town and that public sentiment there is not, or at least was not, what it is in a great many Illinois cities. Notwithstanding there is a state law which makes it illegal to keep saloons open on Sunday, when the question was put to a vote in Springfield a few years ago the people went on record as in favor of having the saloonkeepers disobey the law. It is only just to say, however, that in recent weeks as the result of the policy announced by Sheriff Wheeler, Springfield has had a period of unprecedented Sunday quiet, with all the saloons observing the law.

Looking Back to Waterloo.

It will be just one hundred years ago next Friday since the historic battle of Waterloo was fought and the world applauded because civilization had been saved. A writer in the Independent calls attention to this important anniversary, suggesting that it was not the first time that civilization had been saved and extending the hope that it will be saved again. And while all history acknowledges that the battle of Waterloo was one of the most important, in its results of any conflict ever waged, in the numbers of the troops engaged, it sinks into insignificance by comparison with the battle line of Europe today.

If this chronicler of the famous battle is correct, the English troops under Wellington included 50,000 infantry, 1,240 cavalry and 5,600 artillery; and pitted against them were Napoleon's well disciplined ranks of about 70,000 in number. The Prussian army which engaged in the conflict numbered 56,000, and in this total you have the picture of the forces engaged on that historic day in 1815. It was at half past four in the morning when the rain which had been falling for days ceased and a few hours later the English and French came together. Still a little later the support of the Prussians was at hand, and before sunset the great battle had been fought and won, and the spectacular career of the great Napoleon, including seventeen years with few defeats, was brought to an inglorious close.

Today the European battle line is hundreds of miles in length and millions of soldiers are engaged upon each side, where as the total troops in the great battle of Waterloo was only a little more than 200,000. So far as the observer can tell thousands of miles away, no very material advances have been made by either the German forces or those of the allies on the French and German line for recent months. It is a stubborn contest and according to report many times the number of soldiers engaged in the battle of Waterloo have already sacrificed their lives. Some statistican gives the total loss of life in all divisions of the great European conflict as 7,500,000 and estimates with this same percentage of life loss that the conflict can be waged for three years more before the forces of all the nations engaged are practically exhausted.

Let us hope that on the anniversary of Waterloo that some of the war lords and leaders of European nations may look back a century, and studying the career of Napoleon —his successes and defeats—and considering the after days of Waterloo, may think again upon the general awfulness of war and upon the real futility of such conflicts; of the sorrow that the present war brings to the people of today, and the great burdens that it is placing upon the people of tomorrow.

Presidential Possibilities.

In his address before the Illinois Bar association at Quincy Saturday Senator L. Y. Sherman devoted considerable time to his advocacy of constitutional revision for the state of Illinois. As one of the evils which would likely be remedied by such revision Senator Sherman pointed out minority representation. His thought certainly strikes a responsive chord with most good citizens. One needs but to go into the Illinois legislature to see the effect of minority representation, where year after year, because of this very law it is possible for certain men of very questionable integrity and reputation to be returned to the legislature. In the districts from which such men come they do not represent the best element of the people, but because of minority representation laws they are able to gain such cohesive support from the less desirable elements of society that their return is made possible from year to year notwithstanding the wishes of the majority of the people.

And speaking of Senator Sherman, the possibility of his being a presidential candidate in 1916 has been mentioned more than once in the past and it is now understood that a definite movement has been undertaken by some of his Illinois friends to organize for the purpose of emphasizing the logic of his candidacy and of bringing to special atention also, the fitness of the senator in character and ability.

The belief hold that the nomination for president by the Republican party is almost anybody's race as there is no one candidate to whom the honor can be said to particularly and unquestionably belong. Some friends of Supreme Court Justice Hughes have urged his candidacy just as they did in 1912, but he is said to have unequivocally stated that he will not consider being a candidate. Governor Whitman of New York has been mentioned but with conditions as they have developed in his state recently it is not likely that he will have enough support even there to make him a very formidable candidate.

Senator Cummins of Iowa and Senator Borah of Idaho have been mentioned along with Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin and Senator Weeks of Massachusetts. The country has no abler man than former Senator Elihu Root of New York yet there are certain dangers from the standpoint of success in the nomination of any leader of his type. There has been some talk of the possible candidacy of Congressman James R. Mann of this state, though among Illinoisans his name has not been so frequently mentioned as that of Senator Sherman.

So in considering the possibilities thus far mentioned Senator Sherman seems to measure up well and his claims for the great honor would seem to be equal to any of those mentioned. It is understood that he has thus far when approached on the subject displayed some reticence other than to say that any man would consider it a great honor to be even mentioned in connection with the presidency.

Since he has been in Washington Senator Sherman has made a name for the earnest and serious way he has entered upon his duties. He has shown a disposition to get at the bottom of problem and devotes much of his time to a serious study of public questions. This fact, taken with his ability as a public speaker and the somewhat lesser fact of his rather picturesque personality, have given him place in Washington within a few years' time equal to that secured by some senators through a period of much longer duration.

Evidently Senator Sherman feels that his present honors were secured by the loyalty of his friends; that he has a public duty to perform in his present office which makes large demands upon his time, and he is satisfied to leave it to future and to his friends if any further honors are to be accorded him in 1916.

Looked at from present conditions President Wilson will unquestionably be the nominee of his party as his own successor. There has been no thought in the public mind of questioning this condition until the events of the recent days and the resignation of the premier of the Wilson cabinet. Even now there are few who believe that even Mr. Bryan, who nominated Wilson, could bring it to pass that anyone other than the president would be Democracy's standard bearer in 1916. But even in this condition it is not safe to predict for affairs and changes happen rapidly in this country, witness the developments of the past few days, and there is no telling what chameleon like changes the political situation might take on in the months intervening between the present and the big party conventions next year.

President Wilson is planning for a well earned vacation of a few days, the latter part of this month at his summer home, Cornish, N. H. That certainly looks like the nation's chief executive is feeling sanguine about the outcome of the controversy with Germany.

Magna Charta Day.

The part that the Church of England took in the extortion of the Magna Charta, "The Great Charter of English Liberty," from unwilling King John at Runnymede, will be the topic of sermons in the Episcopal churches of the United States today. The Protestant Episcopal Church, as the daughter and heir of the Church of England, whose rights and privileges and freedom were so strongly sown in that immortal instrument, will celebrate the 700th anniversary. The anniversary of the famous event in the cause of liberty is made especially dear to the Episcopal church because the Archbishop of Canterbury, Stephen Langton, was the first of the signers at Runnymede on the Thames. In addition to special sermons in the churches, felicitations are being cabled to the successor of Langton, Archbishop Randall Davidson.

Listing the City's Creditors.

No announcement has yet been made of any plan the city council may have for meeting the financial conditions, though from time to time the mayor and various commissioners indicate that the matter is receiving careful consideration, and that it is the expectation that some plan for taking care of past and future obligations may be announced. As stated some time ago, Commissioner Widmayer has been busy compiling a complete list of the city's indebtedness and he has also adopted the plan of insisting that all bills against the city be filed each month. This order was made in the commendable endeavor of keeping a close tab on the city's exact financial status from month to month.

More recently Mr. Widmayer has adopted the plan of opening a ledger account with each merchant or firm having a bill against the city. In a small loose leaf ledger he has a page devoted to each such merchant or firm and whenever a bill is filed it will be entered on the merchant's or firm's account page in this book. When a bill is allowed and a warrant issued in payment, then the proper entry will be made in the book so indicating. This plan it is believed will save a great deal of time in running through accounts to find if bills have been previously filed and will also save confusion in the payment of bills. By glancing at any page in this little ledger it is now possible to tell the total amount the city is indebted to any one of its creditors and of course a total of these separate totals indicates the entire amount of the city's floating indebtedness other than salaries and wages.

Approves Both Wilson and Bryan.

A well known Springfield Democrat who is evidently an admirer and friend of both Pres. Wilson and Bryan a day or two since wrote the following interesting comment of Mr. Bryan's resignation.

Who are you for—Wilson or Bryan? It is perhaps very fortunate that Bryan has resigned, considered from the standpoint of humanity in general. No person in the world has perhaps been so prominent in advocating peace and devising ways and means to promote it than has Bryan and to have the country adopt a war policy or negotiate in terms looking toward it while Bryan is in a position of such direct responsibility would not only be a stultification of himself, but would tend to discredit all the work he has done in the past, and give it the appearance of mere sentiment and ideality that has no place in practical administration and would be a blow and iscouragement to the peace movement which it would require years of diplomacy and education to recover from. The tenor of the note of resignation and also of acceptance are presented in a fine spirit of brotherhood and patriotism. Surely, there never were two more sincere men in Washington than Wilson and Bryan. While it seems to me that Bryan did the consistent thing and undoubtedly promoted the larger good by his resignation, at the same time, I believe it might be consistently said that Wilson's policy is the wise and practical one for him to pursue. Of course, We have not yet learned the substance of the last note to Germany. As to the effect on the political future of the two men, that is entirely a matter of chance depending on the fortunes of politics. It can easily be conceived how this disagreement may be the basis of leadership for either one. I have interviewed a number of people on the street out of curosity and I find sentiment pretty evenly divided so far as I have been able to get expressions.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. William Rexroat was born August 9, 1872 in Cass county and died June 8, 1915 at her home in Arenzville. Her maiden name was Decker and she was married Feb. 2, 1894 to William Rexroat. To this union one child was born, Vernon, who survives her and her husband. She also leaves the following brothers and sisters, Mrs. Will Henderson, Mrs. Robert Craig, Mrs. Newton Sinclair, Miss Nan Decker, Miss Hattie Decker, Jessie Decker, Will Decker and John Decker.

Mrs. Rexroat was the youngest of the family and yet the first of the children to be called by death. Her mother passed away several years ago and her father, two years ago. She is also survived by five nieces, two nephews and one great niece, and scores of friends. The community extends sympathy to the family in their great sorrow and commends them to Him who said, "My Grace is Sufficient for Thee".

Funeral services were conducted from the M. E. church Thursday afternoon at two o'clock in charge of Rev. Anna Shively, a life long friend of the deceased. Rev. W. P. Bowman and Rev. Mr. Cain assisted in the services. The church was filled to overflowing, many friends coming from a distance. The floral offerings were very beautiful.

Rev. Mrs. Shively took for her text, "She Hah Done What She Could". The remains were laid to rest in the beautiful cemetery at Arcadia beside her father and mother, at the request of the deceased.

Referendum in Springfield.

City Commissioner Roy Reece of Springfield was among visitors in Jacksonville Saturday. Mr. Reece said that it is entirely likely that the referendum election talked of in Springfield with the purpose of transferring the license giving authority from the commissioner of public health and safety to the mayor will be held. Petitions have been in circulation for some days with the expectation of bringing this matter to a vote and practically all of the necessary signatures have been secured.

It is the argument of Mayor Bauman's friends that the commissioner of public health and safety has so many duties in connection with the police and fire departments that a better plan of city management will be to give over to the mayor the countrol of saloons They argue also that Mayor Bauman's rather strict ideas of saloon management are in accord with general public sentiment in Springfield. Mr. Reece's contention is that the matter of saloon control is so closely related to police affairs that it would not be proper to take it out of his department, and he insists moreover that there has been nothing thus far in his administration of affairs to warrant the assumption that he will not insist upon a proper observance of the law in accordance with the sentiment of Springfield people.

It must be remembered in this connection that Springfield is not classed as a Sunday school town and that public sentiment there is not, or at least was not, what it is in a great many Illinois cities. Notwithstanding there is a state law which makes it illegal to keep saloons open on Sunday, when the question was put to a vote in Springfield a few years ago the people went on record as in favor of having the saloonkeepers disobey the law. It is only just to say, however, that in recent weeks as the result of the policy announced by Sheriff Wheeler, Springfield has had a period of unprecedented Sunday quiet, with all the saloons observing the law.

Looking Back to Waterloo.

It will be just one hundred years ago next Friday since the historic battle of Waterloo was fought and the world applauded because civilization had been saved. A writer in the Independent calls attention to this important anniversary, suggesting that it was not the first time that civilization had been saved and extending the hope that it will be saved again. And while all history acknowledges that the battle of Waterloo was one of the most important, in its results of any conflict ever waged, in the numbers of the troops engaged, it sinks into insignificance by comparison with the battle line of Europe today.

If this chronicler of the famous battle is correct, the English troops under Wellington included 50,000 infantry, 1,240 cavalry and 5,600 artillery; and pitted against them were Napoleon's well disciplined ranks of about 70,000 in number. The Prussian army which engaged in the conflict numbered 50,000, and in this total you have the picture of the forces engaged on that historic day in 1815. It was at half past four in the morning when the rain which had been falling for days ceased and a few hours later the English and French came together. Still a little later the support of the Prussians was at hand, and before sunset the great battle had been fought and won, and the spectacular career of the great Napoleon, including seventeen years with few defeats, was brought to an inglorious close.

Today the European battle line is hundreds of miles in length and millions of soldiers are engaged upon each side, where as the total troops in the great battle of Waterloo was only a little more than 200,000. So far as the observer can tell thousands of miles away, no very material advances have been made by either the German forces or those of the allies on the French and German line for recent months. It is a stubborn contest and according to report many times the number of soldiers engaged in the battle of Waterloo have already sacrificed their lives. Some statistican gives the total loss of life in all divisions of the great European conflict as 7,500,0000 and estimates with this same percentage of life loss that the conflict can be waged for three years more before the forces of all the nations engaged are practically exhausted.

Let us hope that on the anniversary of Waterloo that some of the war lords and leaders of European nations may look back a century, and studying the career of Napoleon—his successes and defeats—and considering the after days of Waterloo, may think again upon the general awfulness of war and upon the real futility of such conflicts; of the sorrow that the present war brings to the people of today, and the great burdens that it is placing upon the people of tomorrow.

Presidential Possibilities.

In his address before the Illinois Bar association at Quincy Saturday Senator L. Y. Sherman devoted considerable time to his advocacy of constitutional revision for the state of Illinois. As one of the evils which would likely be remedied by such revision Senator Sherman pointed out minority representation. His thought certainly strikes a responsive chord with most good citizens. One needs but to go into the Illinois legislature to see the effect of minority representation, where year after year, because of this very law it is possible for certain men of very questionable integrity and reputation to be returned to the legislature. In the districts from which such men come they do not represent the best element of the people, but because of minority representation laws they are able to gain such cohesive support from the less desirable elements of society that their return is made possible from year to year notwithstanding the wishes of the majority of the people.

And speaking of Senator Sherman, the possibility of his being a presidential candidate in 1916 has been mentioned more than once in the past and it is now understood that a definite movement has been undertaken by some of his Illinois friends to organize for the purpose of emphasizing the logic of his candidacy and of bringing to special atention also, the fitness of the senator in character and ability.

The belief hold that the nomination for president by the Republican party is almost anybody's race as there is no one candidate to whom the honor can be said to particularly and unquestionably belong. Some friends of Supreme Court Justice Hughes have urged his candidacy just as they did in 1912, but he is said to have unequivocally stated that he will not consider being a candidate. Governor Whitman of New York has been mentioned but with conditions as they have developed in his state recently it is not likely that he will have enough support even there to make him a very formidable candidate.

Senator Cummins of Iowa and Senator Borah of Idaho have been mentioned along with Senator La-Follette of Wisconsin and Senator Weeks of Massachusetts. The country has no abler man than former Senator Elihu Root of New York yet there are certain dangers from the standpoint of success in the nomination of any leader of his type. There has been some talk of the possible candidacy of Congressman James R. Mann of this state, though among Illinoisans his name has not been so frequently mentioned as that of Senator Sherman.

So in considering the possibilities thus far mentioned Senator Sherman seems to measure up well and his claims for the great honor would seem to be equal to any of those mentioned. It is understood that he has thus far when approached on the subject displayed some reticence other than to say that any man would consider it a great honor to be even mentioned in connection with the presidency.

Since he has been in Washington Senator Sherman has made a name for the earnest and serious way he has entered upon his duties. He has shown a disposition to get at the bottom of problem and devotes much of his time to a serious study of public questions. This fact, taken with his ability as a public speaker and the somewhat lesser fact of his ratner picturesque personality, have given him place in Washington within a few years' time equal to that secured by some senators through a period of much longer duration.

Evidently Senator Sherman feels that his present honors were secured by the loyalty of his friends; that he has a public duty to perform in his present office which makes large demands upon his time, and he is satisfied to leave it to future and to his friends if any further honors are to be accorded him in 1916.

Looked at from present conditions President Wilson will unquestionably be the nominee of his party as his own successor. There has been no thought in the public mind of questioning this condition until the events of the recent days and the resignation of the premier of the Wilson cabinet. Even now there are few who believe that even Mr. Bryan, who nominated Wilson, could bring it to pass that anyone other than the president would be Democracy's standard bearer in 1916. But even in this condition it is not safe to predict for affairs and changes happen rapidly in this country, witness the developments of the past few days, and there is no telling what chameleon like changes the political situation might take on in the months intervening between the present and the big party conventions next year.

Chicago, June 12.—The threatened strike of motormen and conductors on Chicago street railways further was delayed tonight when the men submited a plan of arbitration subject to certain restrictions. One of these is that no run shall be less than nine hours nor more than eleven hours and no run shall pay les than nine hours pay except for Sunday work.

It was stipulated that the compaoies should make an answer to the proposal of the men by noon tomorrow.

Mayor Thompson agreed to have the proposition in the hands of the company officials within an hour after the close of the conference. He considered the outlook for a settlement of the differences hopeful.

FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.
(By Associated Press)

Stockholm, June 11.—There has been much discussion about the smuggling of contraband from Sweden to Germany, though it is well known that the customs officials have been alert to prevent it. The suspicions were justified apparently in the sase of the steamer Solve, which left Stockhold in January loaded with plaids, copper, rubber tires and a miscellaneous cargo of other articles. She was bound for Norrkoping, where additional cargo was to be put aboard. Then it was intended to have her go to Malmo and off the coast, where she would be outside Swedish waters, and have the ship seized by Germans. But the authorities took the ship in Norrkoping harbor.

In February there was another attempt. Three big steamers loaded with maize came into Landscrona harbor, the bill of ladings signed to order. A German presented himself as the owner and ordered the ships on the same day to go to Norrkoping, around Falsterbo, evidently with the intention of being taken by the Germans. But the government declared that the ships must unload in Landscrona.

In the first week in April there was another striking case when the steamer England, belonging to the recent Swedish minister of marine, was captured off Falsterbo and brought to Settin, where much of her cargo was unloaded as belonging to a German. It was another cargo of maize and came from America, being under the authorization of the Swedish government for use in Sweden. During the journey one of the interested firms sold its part of the cargo to a Stockholm firm, which in turn sold it to the German government.

As a result of such attempts the Swedish authorities now demand that every vessel bound for the east coast shall call at Malmo for inspection. It may be that some tons of copper may have been smuggled across the frontier, but there has not been any systematic trade in contraband.

Copenhagen, June 11.—Some unusual attempts at smuggling have been recently disclosed here, owing to the unusual vigilance which is being observed by the customs officers, especially toward passengers bound for Germany. Three well-dressed travelers, with a marked tendency toward stoutness, were searched a few days ago and found to have about 400 automobile inner tubes wound closely around their bodies. The export of rubber is prohibited.

Paris, June 11.—War has considerably reduced the number of French athletes. Their champion association football team, winner of the cup of the Association Sportive Francaise, has had all but one of its men on the firing line. Four players were killed, two severely wounded, and of the remaining four, one has been awarded the Legion of Honor and the other the military medal. Bon Remy, captain of the team, has been trepanned twice and exempted from further military service.

The Association Sporting Perpignannaise, the Rugby champions of France, has had six out of its fifteen men killed.

Among the athletes fallen in battle are Jean Bouin, holder of the world's hour record for running; Gaston Lane, captain of the French international Rugby teams, and Francois Faber, the best professional road cyclist in France.

MAVERICKS

The graduate now steppeth forth, with dignified and stately mein, and hidden deep within his breast there is a thirst for knowledge keen. Upon the world he looks with scorn and says, "Just hear me blow my horn." He dreams of presidents and kings and kindred and divers other things. "A small job like railroad president is just the job for me, you bet." For such jobs as these he seeks in vain, and in his heart there is much pain. He finds that life's no rosy dream, and things are far from what they seem; in fact, he finds, alas, alack! that he is nothing but a jack.

If Germany doesn't, what will President Wilson do? That is what is worrying most of us.

It only remains to get the Honorable Roger Sullivan's opinion on the resignation of Mr. Bryan.

If the war lasts a few months longer business ought to pick up with the ship builders.

Here's a chance for some Sherlock Holmes to apply his powers of deduction. Burglars entered a paint shop in Barry the other night and left a knife for a clew.

A few years changes some men wonderfully. It seems to us that when the Spanish-American war broke out William J. Bryan was a regular fire-eater. If memory serves us right, he was a colonel of a Nebraska regiment.

Pitching horseshoe is a strenuous and exciting game in Quincy. Two colored men quarrelled over a game the other day and one went gunning for the other with a double barrel shotgun.

Mail Held Up.

The United States mail was held up over in Pike county the other day by high water. Secret service agents probably are working on the case by this time.

Some man down near Hillsboro found a mastodon's tooth that, it is said, is sixteen inches long and solid ivory. That is nothing unusual. Lots of ball players have heads of solid ivory, though probably not so large.

The following is a sample of what can be done with the English language:

Lost—A bundle of paper wrapped up in a laprobe between Damon and Timewell, on Tuesday of this week, belonging to Elias Hodgson. Finder will please let him know and receive reward.

Villa has asked Carranza to meet him on neutral territory. It is probable that they will have to come over in Texas, as there doesn't seem to be much neutral territory in Mexico.

A recent night was the first time in over a year that the first news to come over the Journal A. P. wire was not a war bulletin. On that night the first war bulletin did not come until 8:20. That goes to show how the European war dominated the news for the last twelve months.

Some people do things and get by with them. Some years ago someone wrote a poem which started with the line, "When I was a tadpole and you were a fish." It really was good verse, but as we recollect it no copyright was made of it. In last Sunday's Chicago Herald some individual named Allen had a very bad parody on this same poem and all rights are reserved and it is copyrighted. If the man who wrote the original sees it, we wonder what he will think if the bad meter don't cause him to have heart disease.

Class day exercises at a college commencement are always looked forward to as one of the comedy climaxes of the year. Despite the jokes that the graduates have at each others' expense and that of the undergraduates, there always seems to be a touch of pathos and an underlying sadness in the occasion. These young men and women of a graduating class are going out into the world to fight their own battles. The close friendships they have formed during their college years are about to be severed. They do not believe it at the time. Each promises to write to the other. Those who have roomed together for several years believe that nothing will sever their friendship. Yet in a few years, in the bustle and hurry of life, correspondence will gradually cease and they will almost forget each other. Yet occasionally, when the graduate sits down for retrospection, there will come to him remembrance of the old days. This may come a few years after he leaves school and it may not come for years. When it does there will come the longing for a sight of his alma mater. Many writers tell us of the wanderlust in man. There may be in some, but it is only a few. But the longing for home is inherent in every human being. So when the voice calls the college graduate will, like the homing pigeon set his course for the old school, and there revel in class reunions, literary society gatherings, and become for the time a boy again.

OVER FORTY YEARS IN HIS NATION'S SERVICE

DEATH BRINGS TO CLOSE REMARKABLE CAREER OF CHAS. HANBACK.

Former Jacksonville Resident Served in Union Army Over Four Years and Was Employed in Pension Department at Washington for Past Thirty-seven Years.

Word was received in the city Saturday morning by W. W. Hanback, 807 South Church street, of death of his oldest brother, Charles Hanback, of Washington, D. C. Mr. Hanback had been in poor health for more than a year and had undergone four surgical operations in that period of time.

The hand of death in this case brought to a close a very remarkable career, a life spent largely in the interests of and for his country. The deceased was born in Adams county 74 years ago, the son of William and Ann Hanback. His early years were spent in Adams and Morgan counties. It is said that he was raised in the army, as he joined the Union army at Jacksonville for three months' service at the age of 15 years. Before the end of the three months service he re-enlisted for three years and at the end of this period he re-enlisted for another three years, or the close of the war. He served four years and three months' time in the army, being a member of the 127th Illinois infantry. During that long period of time he saw, with others of his brave company, dangers, battles and fighting, of which it would take a volume to recount.

At the close of the war he traveled about over the country to some extent before securing employment in the pension department at Washington, D. C. In this department of the government service Mr. Hanback spent the last thirty-seven years of his life. His life and endeavors have always been highly esteemed and valued by his country, which he so loved.

The deceased is survived by his wife, no children, three brothers, Albert G. Hanback of Topeka, Kas., W. W. Hanback of this city and Julius Hanback of Dallas, Tex.; also one sister, Mrs. Maggie Kay of Camp Point, Ill.

Funeral services will be held in Washington, D. C., tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. Interment will be made in Arlington cemetery.

ORDER VALUABLE OIL LANDS RESTORED TO GOVERNMENT

Are Declared to Have Been Fraudulently Patented by the Southern Pacific.

Los Angeles, June 11—Ten sections of California oil land near the town of McKittrick, Kern county, valued at $15,000,000 were declared to have been fradulently patented by the Southern Pacific railroad company in a decision by Judge Robert S. Bean, of the United States district court of Oregon, filed here today. The land, part of a large area, which is alleged to have been illegally claimed by the railroad company, is ordered restored to the government.

The lands given back to the government under the decision, like those in the Elk Hills district of Kern county, would supply the navy with petroleum for a period of twenty-five years, according to Willis S. Mills, special counsel for the government, who made the closing argument for the government.

Another suit involving oil lands in the same area and valued by government experts at $320,000,000, still is pending in the United States district court, Judge Bledsoe having denied, a few days ago, a motion by the railroad company to dismiss the action on the ground that the statute of limitations had supervened.

FALLS FROM TRESTLE; DROWNS

Fort Worth, Texas, June 11—Flood waters of the Trinity river today caused the loss of another life here and continued to do much damage to property. Jack Waldrep, 55, fell from a trestle late today and was drowned.

The water has weakened a portion of a half million dollar viaduct recently completed and fears for it as well as other viaducts and bridges in the fooded district are held by officials.

ONE MORE WEEK'S WORK FOR THE LEGISLATURE

BUSY DAYS IN PROSPECT FOR ILLINOIS GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

Great Number of Bills Must Be Disposed Of Before Twelve-Day Recess Begins—House Will Be On the Job Tomorrow—Election Commission Proposed to Study Plan for Law Codification.

Springfield, Ill., June 12. — One more week will bring to an end the activities of the forty-ninth general assembly. Either next Thursday or next Friday night the two branches will strike from their calendars all bills that remain undisposed of and go into recess for twelve days, after which they will return to the capital and adjourn the assembly sine die.

The twelve days recess is necessary, under the constitution, in order that Gov. Dunne may have in his hands for a period of ten days, with Sundays excepted, before the assembly is adjourned sine die, all bills that have been passed.

While it does not appear within the realm of possibility that every bill now on the calendars will receive consideration, members of the house will return to the job next Monday morning with the intention of disposing of everything possible by the time of ending work. A longer period of activity than next Friday night is impossible, because the necessary ten days in which the governor may consider bills will run the time up to July 1, when all legislative enactments of the present session become effective.

Home Rule Utility Bills.

The most important matters remaining for consideration, at least from the Chicago viewpoint, are the series of three bills which passed the senate last Friday, providing for "home rule" for Chicago for her public utilities and authorizing the consolidation of the surface and elevated railways of that city. These measures will be given a hearing in the house committee on public utilities Monday night, and it is expected will be reported into the house either Monday night or Tuesday morning. Their consideration upon the order of passage will be either Wednesday or Thursday, in all probability.

The "home rule" measure provides for the creation of a commission, to be named by the mayor of the city of Chicago, with the consent of the city council. The bill was approved by the Chicago authorities in its original form, but the senate added an amendment which is not approved of by the Chicago officials and which it is expected will be fought in the house. The amendment provides that nothing in the bill shall be construed as taking away from any other body any authority now existing or hereafter granted over the control of public utilities. The Chicago aldermen are strenuously opposed to this provision.

It is not unlikely that an extended debate will result on the floor of the house when these three measures are brought up. If so, Friday probably will be made the day of final adjournment, instead of Thursday.

Election Commission Proposed.

Another matter to be disposed of next week is the proposition for the creation of a commission to investigate the subject of elections and to submit a report and recommendations to the next general assembly, with a view to revising and codifying the election and primary election laws of the state. When the pending election bills were killed in the senate last week it was with the understanding that such a commission would be created to consider the matter. Senator Keller already has introduced a bill providing for a $25,000 appropriation to meet the expenses of such an investigation, and the resolution probably will be started in the senate when that body meets tomorrow night.

It is probable that the supporters of the seventy-five car limit bill will make one more effort Monday to call up their bill in the house. This is a house measure, and if it is to be passed it must be disposed of in the house at once. A hard fight is being made against its passage.

Senator Canaday may make one more attempt to call up his bills abolishing capital punishment in the state, but the proposition met with such overwhelming defeat last week that the senate refused to make the companion bills a special order for the coming week and the senator may abandon them.

The two centennial bills, one providing for acquiring two additional square blocks of land adjoining the capitol grounds on the south, and the other appropriating $50,000 to start the erection of a centennial memorial building upon the site, will be before the house the coming week. The citizens of Springfield have volunteered to donate $100,000 to the fund for the purchase of the land for the state. It is the idea to start the centennial building at once, so that it may be dedicated during centennial year. The $50,000 asked for is designed to furnish funds to commence building operations, the remainder of the appropriation to be forthcoming from future legislatures as the building operations progress.

The Text-Book Bill.

A fight is expected in the senate over the bill providing for county uniformity of school text-books. The bill is now on second reading in the upper branch.

Another bill that is expected to cause considerable debate in the senate is Representative Igoe's bill prohibiting the building of a jail within 500 feet of a school house or church. Residents of Rock Island county are now preparing to build a new jail in the grounds upon which their county court house is located, and if this is done, it will be across the street from a parochial school. Rival delegations from Rock Island county appeared before the senate committee on education last week and talked for and against the bill. It was reported out of committee by a narrow margin.

Representative Thor's bill providing for state regulation of private banks is upon the house calendar and the author will make a determined effort to get action upon it Monday afternoon or Monday night. His failure to do so practically means an end to all possibility of private bank legislation at this session.

FRA ELBERTUS

Down to the depths went Elbert Hubbard, with smiling eyes that knew no fear, and all the lovely mermaids rubbered, and Neptune shouted, "See who's here!" Well might there be a great commotion throughout the sea, from east to west, for seldom has old Father Ocean clasped hands with such a splend'd guest. The inkstand waits upon his table, his pen is rusting in the sun; there is no living hand that's able to do the work he left undone. There's no brain so keen and witty, no voice with his caressing tones; and Elbert, in the Dead Men's city, is swapping yarns with Davy Jones. And all the world that reads evinces its sorrow that he's dwelling there; not all the warring kings and princes are worth a ringlet of his hair. Death keeps a record in his cupboard of victims of the monarchs' hate; "a million men and Elbert Hubbard", so goes the tally, up to date. If it would bring you back, Elbertus, to twang your harp with golden strings, it would not worry us or hurt us to drown a wagonload of kings.

PHILLIES TAKE LEAGUE LEADERSHIP FROM CUBS

MAYER ALLOWS CHICAGO BUT TWO HITS.

Contest Resolves Itself into a Farce After Philadelphia Takes a Comfortable Lead—Chicago Pitchers Are Hit Hard.

Chicago, June 12.—For the second time in the series, Philadelphia today deposed Chicago from the lead in the National League race when they won the odd game in a one sided batting bee and snutout the locals, 13 to 0.

Mayer pitched in fine form, allowing Chicago but two hits, which came in the second and ninth innings and were made by Saier and Fisner.

After the visitors had taken a comfortable lead the game resolved itself into a farce. Pierce, Zabel, and Standridge pitched for Chicago and were hit hard, the visitors getting seventen hits for a total of twenty-six bases.

"MORNING GLANCES" (By Gosh)

The National league races still remains close. The past week the Cubs and Phillies have changed places several times. This morning the Phillies are on top. The race so far has been between these teams and little to choose from. The Braves threatened a spurt for a while but it did not pan out. They are fighting with Brooklyn for third place with the Dodgers now holding the position. The Cardinals are not far behind and may step into third place at any time. Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and New York are in the order named.

* * *

The Giants look to be disorganized. It is probable that the loss of so many games has caused the Giants to get to crabbing with each other. That this probably is true was shown when McGraw and Dick Kinsella, club scout, engaged in a fight with Larry McLean in a hotel lobby early the other morning. After the controversy McGraw released MsLean. Larry has the reputation of being one of the hardest ball players in the business to manage. McGraw did better with him than anyone else had ever been able to do. He has kept him in the straight and narrow path for about three years. During this time Larry has played good ball for McGraw and in one world's series he was nearly the whole show. This escapade probably will spell finis for McLean in the big show.

* * *

In the American Detroit deposed Chicago for a brief period. However Chicago got back on top and is there at the present time. Detroit lost a little by getting whipped by the Boston Red Sox. The Sox are going good and have pulled into third place. Joe Wood seems to be going well, again as is Cady who was practically worthless last season. If these two come back they will win many games, Wood with his pitching and Cody with his hitting.

* * *

Washington the past week has pulled into fourth place and is closely pressed by New York and Cleveland. The Indians, which is the new name of the Cleveland club, is playing some ball and bids fair to cause trouble for the team that wins the pennant. St. Louis and Philadelphia are way down in the ruck. At this distance it does not look like the White Sox are going to blow. In fact Rowland looks to have a better team than any Sox team of the lest four years Here's hoping you cop Clarence.

* * *

The Federal league race was a close one for a short time. Pittsburgh, Kansas City and Newark alternated in first place for awhile. The past week Kansas City got to going and won several games in a row and took a firm lead on the top rung of the ladder.

* * *

Lee Magee's Brooklyn team coming fast nosed Newark out of third place and is now next to Pittsburgh the place team. St. Louis, Chicago, Baltimore and Buffalo are in the order named. St. Louis and Chicago are within hailing distance of the top, however, and in a week's time may climb up there.

* * *

Travis will be on the mound for the Eagles today. He is from Havana and pitched for Havana against the Chicago Federal league team the other day. It is said that he has got the goods and he needs them to beat Divernon.

* * *

Philadelphia surely got revenge for their shutout of Friday when they beat the Cubs on Saturday by a score of 13 to 0. The Phillies made seventeen hits, among them two home runs. While they were doing this Mayer was holding the Cubs to two hits, one a double by Saier.

* * *

Rowland lost at Washington Saturday but still retained the lead. The score was 2 to 1. Ayres for Washington held the Sox to four hits. Jack Fournier got one of them which was a three base smash.

* * *

Connie Macks remnants of a once great team beat the Tigers Saturday. It was a seesaw game and the final score was 7 to 6. Each team used two pitchers. Crawford's muff in the thirteenth inning paved the way for the Athletics winning run.

* * *

The Braves won the final game of the series with Pittsburgh Saturday by a score of 8 to 2. Pittsburgh had the game won up to the seventh when the Braves fell on the Pirate pitchers and scored eight runs. The pirates tried four pitchers in the melee.

* * *

St. Louis easily defeated New York Saturday. They knocked Marquart off the slab in the fourth inning, getting a home run, a double, two singles and pass, netting five runs.

* * *

The Reds put a crimp in Brooklyn's pennant climb yesterday when they won 8 to 1. Cadore and Atchinson were easy for the Red batters, they making a total of twelve hits.

* * *

By making twelve hits off of Hamilton, Peryman and Weilman, New York beat St. Louis 9 to 5. Caldwell made another home run which was the third he has made in four times up.

* * *

Boston beat Cleveland 5 to 4 hitting Coumbe, Hagerman and Jones with ease.

—:-|-:—

New York might profit by playing Caldwell in the outfield instead of on the slab.

* * *

Kuepper pitching for Quincy won a double header from Bloomington Saturday. Bloomington got one run in the two games. The first was nine and the other seven innings.

Merely "Oil" Won't Do Here

Consider running your motor without any lubricant. That is only a much quicker way to ruin it than to run it with a poor oil. It takes longer, that is all.

An oil that does any damage has no place in any car, for the function of a lubricant is to protect friction-surfaces. The ease of running—easy action and full power—simply goes along with this protection.

Some oils are better than others, but only the best should be used. Anything less is injurious.

The question is—Which are the best oils?

Polarine
FRICTION REDUCING MOTOR OIL

is made in the largest plant of its kind in the world. Here is every known facility, collected after years of experience, for the production of the perfect oil. Here is a great laboratory. Here are chemical specialists—experts who have spent years working out lubricating problems of all kinds. Their prestige is at stake on every one of their recommendations.

Polarine is their recommendation for all standard makes and types of motor cars, motor trucks and motor boats in use today.

No better oil can be made, yet Polarine costs no more than poorer oils. Our profits come from volume, for we are selling Polarine at the rate of 7,000,000 gallons yearly.

Use an oil about which you know all the facts.

All first class dealers, garages and filling stations can supply you with Polarine. Insist on getting it.

INDIANA'S OLD CAPITOL IS HISTORIC STRUCTURE

Erected in Corydon in 1813 and Is Still Standing—F. M. Brewer's Father One of the Builders.

It is doubtful, if you would ask the average citizen where the first capital of Illinois was located, that you could get a corect answer. The first capital of the state was located at Kaskaskia, the oldest town in the state; the second at Vandalia, where it remained until removed to its present location, Springfield.

This story does not deal with the capital of Illinois, but with the capital of Indiana, our sister state. Indiana became a state two years before Illinois, being admitted in 1816. Illinois was admitted in 1818.

Francis M. Brewer, of the Dunlap, is a Hoosier by birth and naturally is interested in all that pertains to his native state. The first capital of Indiana was located at Corydon, Indiana, and the capitol building is still standing. The building was erected in 1813, three years before the territory was made a state. It was used as a state house for nine years, or until 1825. At the present time it still is being used for a court house.

One reason Mr. Brewer is so intensely interested in the old state house is because his grandfather was one of the men who helped build it. His grandfather was born in Virginia in 1796, but was taken by his parents to Indiana at an early age. He learned the stonemason's trade and was one of the builders of the state's first capitol.

His grandfather was married August 2, 1820, and secured his marriage license at the old state house. Mr. Brewer's father was born in the vicinity of Corydon and he also secured his license to marry at the same place.

A number of citizens of Corydon who realized the need of more adequate quarters for a court house and who also realized the value of preserving the state's first capitol building, sent out the following synopsis of the building and its history:

"The 'Old State Capitol,' where Indiana was born in 1816, is still standing at Corydon and is in a splendid state of preservation. This historic old building was erected in 1813 and was the territorial capitol of Indiana three years and the state capitol nine years.

"For many years there has been a growing sentiment over the state in favor of its preservation and if any steps are ever to be taken looking to this end, this is certainly the appropriate time for such action, as any celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of our statehood would be incomplete without including Corydon, the birthplace of the state, in the consideration.

"The old capitol building is constructed of native limestone taken from the Indian Creek hills. Its walls are two and one-half feet thick and it will stand for centuries to come, a landmark of the economy and simplicity of Indiana's pioneer days. Its preservation by the people of the entire state would involve a comparatively small expense and would certainly be in keeping with an appropriate spirit of state pride.

"The memorials of our state and nation are among our richest heritages as a people, as around them cling and cluster valuable historic facts and most inspiring sentiments of other days. Such objects of public interest, when once destroyed, can never be replaced, hence we trust the legislature will give this matter full and proper consideration, with a view to the permanent preservation of this, the most historic building in the state.

The citizens of Corydon who have issued this statement go on to give the facts in the case. They recite the fact that the building is wholly inadequate for a court house and asked the legislature to aid them, not only in purchasing a new site for a court house, but also to make provisions to preserve the old capitol building for future generations.

FORM PLANS TO OUTWIT TAX DODGERS.

Washington, June 12.—The problem of the tax dodger and how best to defeat his cunning is the subject of a gathering of internal revenue collectors today by Commissioner Osborn. Uniform and effective methods will be planned for a more thorough rounding up of income tax, for the treasury department is not satisfied with the returns from the income tax law. The personnel of the collecting staffs will also be given strict scrutiny, for Uncle Sam is determined to collect.

CORRESPONDENCE OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Paris, June 12.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—The effect of the war on emigration to the United States is a subject of less interest to France than other European countries. In late years the average of Frenchmen who have gone to America annually was less than 10,000. The French are not a migratory race and in the opinion of a great many thinking people they will have more than ever reason to remain at home after the war, when everyone looks for a great commercial and industrial impetus.

On the other hand there are competent authorities who hold that the simultaneous liberation of 15,000,000 or more soldiers will drug the labor market in all countries, and particularly in France and Belgium, where the demand for labor will for a considerable period feel the effect of the devastation of its industries. During the reconstruction and readjusting period these authorities expect that a considerable proportion of labor will be attracted by the higher wages paid in the United States.

Monsieur Dal Piaz, director of the French trans-Atlantic line, whose functions require him to be posted on emigration problems, thinks that the United States, having been least of all the great industrial countries affected by the war, will be in shape at the end of hostilities to absorb a considerable percentage of the unemployed labor of Europe. That labor, he thinks, instead of waiting for the transition period to pass, will emigrate in a large proportion.

Monsieur March, treasurer of the Federation of Labor Unions, admits the force of these arguments as applied to other European countries—Russia, Germany, Austria and Hungary, for instance—but he believes war will have no effect upon the emigration from France.

Aside from a few miners from the north who go to the United States, most of the French emigrants are from the south along the Spanish border. As for the former, they will all be needed as soon as hostilities end, to bring the fuel supply up to requirements. There is no danger of others emigrating, because they will find plenty to do while industries are being restored in helping to rebuild.

The labor situation in France, Monsieur Marck thinks, will be much relieved by the elimination of Germans, who were employed in considerable numbers in France before the war. All hotels will have to reconstitute their staffs. The great proportion of the jewelry workers in Paris were Hungarians, who must be replaced. There were also continually in Paris considerable numbers of Germans, particularly in offices, working voluntarily without pay in order to learn the business and the language. No one considers the eventuality of these coming back and the demands for French help in all branches will be proportionately increased.

Labor leaders do not now, nor have they ever, encouraged emigration, because they have been in closer touch with labor conditions in the United States than anyone else and know that work is not always to be had there, while there is always something to be done at home.

Persons familiar with sociological questions in general seem to think that in case France is victorious, civic pride will be stronger than it has ever been since the constitution of the republic, and will constitute an additional tie upon its citizens. France vanquished would naturally change the whole situation, and yet the example of 1870 is there to show that even beaten, a commercial and industrial boom is likely to set in and keep the entire population busy.

Petrograd, June 12.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—The headquarters of the Grand Duke Nicholas are on board a special train of six cars, in which he jumps from one field of activity to another at frequent intervals, as the necessities of strategy dictate.

Sometimes the train stands on the same siding for a fortnight at a time, sometimes only for an hour, but at all times the locomotive has steam up, ready at an instant's notice to be on the way again. It is in this moving habitation that the commander-in-chief of the Russian armies spends practically all his nights and a considerable portion of his days.

He has also a fixed headquarters, located far behind the lines in a little town so peaceful and isolated that it has never yet aroused the curiosity of the German aeroplanes or Zeppelin scouts. The place is well, but unostentatiously guarded.

The grand duke's train consists of a new locomotive, a sleeping car, a dining car, a parlor car and an ordinary first-class coach, followed by two baggage vans, each containing a high-powered motor car, which can be quickly unloaded and used for trips to points not reached by the railroad lines. Whenever the train stops, sentries with fixed bayonets take their places silently at each doorway and at the front and rear. By night the train runs without any lights visible from the outside, except the necessary signal lamps. The commander-in-chief and his staff, behind curtained windows, work late into the night. The grand duke seldom retires before midnight, and four or five hours is as much as he allows himself for sleep.

Throughout the empire the war has made the grand duke the great popular hero of the day. His lofty stature, his fearless honesty, his sharp, haughty severity, his reputation for firmness and justice, his strict adherence to discipline, are all qualities which appeal to the popular mind more directly in time of war than in peace. Innumerable anecdotes are related of him and on all sides one may hear the hope expressed that he will go into politics after the war and rid the country of some of the obvious drawbacks of the old bureaucracy. But those close to the grand duke say that he has no inclination for politics, and many doubt whether the qualities which make him a popular idol as commander-in-chief would appear with equal advantage if his sphere of action were political rather than military.

One of the grand duke's pet aversions is the Germano-Russian population of the country, which is particularly numerous and influential in the northwest, and is also rather firmly established in Petrograd. Many of the Russo-Germans are excellent citizens and unquestionably loyal to Russia; many others, however, are either admittedly pro-German or of doubtful loyalty. The grand duke has been the chief backer of the campaign which has recently been carried out in Petrograd against this class of citizens. It is said that the grand duke recently remarked to his nephew, the czar: "You may feel quite at ease with regard to the Germans at the front. I will undertake to give them a thorough beating. I only wish you could be sure that the enemy in your own court would be as well handled."

London, June 12.—The authorities of the Bank of England have given permission for several more of their clerks to enlist and the already large staff of temporary women clerks has therefore been further augmented.

One of the largest joint stock banks has also released 200 clerks for enlistment and the remainder will work late several days a week. This is expected to make the suggested earlier closing of banks for public business an accomplished fact in the near future.

ORGANIZE TO PRESERVE SCENIC BEAUTY.

Three Oaks, Mich., June 12.—The preservation of streams, woodlands and the natural landscape is the object of the Friends of Our Native Landscape, which meets tomorrow in annual convention in the Warren woods, near Three Oaks. The program includes a masque, with fairies and wood nymphs, campfire gatherings and other features. Landscape architects, nature lovers and sportsmen have come from far and wide to organize for the preservation of scenic spots in America.

An Englishman who prints a paper in Kansas which is read largely by Germans retained his popularity by keeping all war news out and not allowing his personal views to enter print.

Rent Houses Wanted

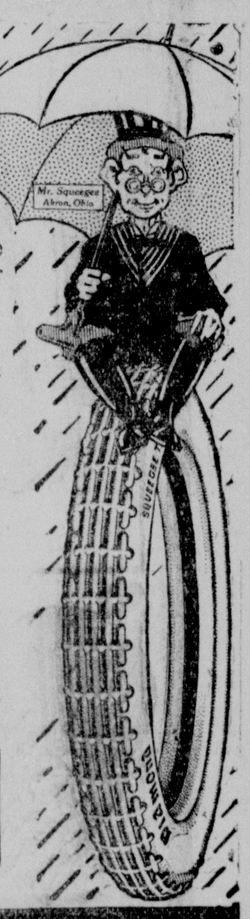

There has never been a time when desirable rent houses, $7.50 to $25, were scarcer at Johnston Agency than they are today. Our facilities for securing the right renter for the right house are good. Being the only agency in the city making a specialty of this business, a constant stream of applicants pours through our office. We know what is due to tenants in the way of repairs, and our tenants stay. On the other hand, we collect all rents in advance, and we do not, upon the average, lose a full month's rent upon one house a year.

Landlords—We think you will find it profitable, and save yourselves a great amount of trouble, if you will let us attend to your rentals. We have made a science of it. And we respectfully solicit your business.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE IN SUMMER

Whether you spend the summer months in the city or country, at the lake, mountain or seashore, the season brings added responsibility in the extra care to be devoted to the toilet.

The hair, in particular, needs more attention than at any other time. The perspiration that exudes in increased quantities carries with it waste and poisonous matter, which unless removed promptly, clogs the pores and irritates the scalp. This makes it doubly difficult to keep the hair and scalp sweet and clean and renders the frequent and intelligent use of Newbro's Herpicide almost a necessity.

ADDS TO YOUR COMFORT

It is refreshing. Regular applications give a sense of coolness and cleanliness, besides keeping the hair and scalp healthy. Herpicide adds gloss and beauty to the hair and thus increases one's personal charm and attractiveness.

If the hair be wet from bathing, whether in fresh or salt water, Herpicide quickly restores the natural fluffiness and softness. It stops itching of the scalp, due to dandruff, almost instantly.

Possessing a dainty, exquisite odor, Newbro's Herpicide is an ideal hot weather hair dressing. When you start away on your summer outing, have a bottle in your grip.

Send 10 cents for sample bottle to the HERPICIDE CO., Dept. 126-B, DETROIT, MICH.

MAY CURTAIL SCOPE OF U. S. WHITE SLAVE LAW

Caminetti Case Before Supreme Court for Review—Claim That Purpose of the Mann Act Has Been Exceeded.

DIGGS-CAMINETTI DOUBLE ELOPEMENT.

March 10, 1913—Maury I. Diggs and F. D. Caminetti, both married and fathers of children, eloped to Reno from California with Marsha Warrington and Lola Norris, Sacramento high school girls.

March 15—Four elopers arrested in a bungalow at Reno. White slave charges brought against the two men.

April 12—Diggs and Caminetti indicted by federal grand jury under Mann act.

April 29—Both pleaded not guilty.

May 16—U. S. Attorney General McReynolds demanded all data on the case.

June 22—John L. McNabb, U. S. district attorney at San Francisco, resigned because he was ordered to postpone prosecution. Matt I. Sullivan named special prosecutor by President Wilson and ordered to begin trials at once.

Aug. 20—Diggs convicted and sentenced to two years in prison.

Aug. 27—Caminetti convicted and sentenced to serve eighteen months.

March 18, 1915. — Circuit Court of Appeals confirmed convictions.

May 28—Petition filed in supreme court for review of conviction of Caminetti. Diggs' appeal will follow.

Washington, June 12. — The Diggs-Caminetti elopement, which stirred the country two years ago, because of the prominence of the men involved, the circumstances attending the prosecution of the men under the white slave act and their conviction and sentence under its provisions, is now before the supreme court of the United States, and it is hoped by those interested in the famous case and in the definition of the famous law that the supreme court will render an opinion as to the exact bounds of its application.

The great point at issue is whether the act should cover cases of mere immorality where it is not shown that traffic in vice existed or that coercion was resorted to. It is on the ground that the Mann act does not so apply that the review of the case of F. Drew Caminetti was requested of the court.

That there is a new view of this aspect of the law is manifested in various quarters. Hon. James R. Mann, congressman from Illinois, who framed the law, has stated that he did not intend it as a weapon to punish personal escapades, but as a means of stopping commercialism and coercion to vice, which constituted all views of white slavery before the famous act was passed by congress. That there is a tendency on the part of the department of justice to limit the scope of the prosecutions under the Mann act to those involving commercialized vice and coercion is indicated in Washington. In fact, the government officials stated they would not oppose the application of former Senator Joseph W. Bailey for a writ of certiorari of the Caminetti conviction.

Attorney Bailey, in bringing the Caminetti case before the supreme court, raises the point that immorality is not commerce, and no matter how much we may abhor moral delinquency, it is subject to state and not federal control.

Two federal courts have already decided against Caminetti. The supreme court may leave the interpretation of the law with the lower courts by denying the application. Their decision is expected on Monday.

When the United States circuit court of appeals reviewed the case last March, two judges affirmed the conviction and one dissented. Judge E. M. Ross of Los Angeles dissented on the ground that Judge Van Fleet, before whom the trial was held, erred in his instructions to the jury when he told them they might take into consideration the fact that Caminetti refused to testify on certain episodes that happened after the elopement to Reno.

F. Drew Caminetti is the son of A. Caminetti, commissioner general of immigration of the United States. Maury L. Diggs, his companion on the escapade with the high school girls, was formerly state architect of California and the son of a Berkeley, Cal., millionaire.

The roundup of the elopers and the indictment of the young married men in connection with the white slave act was no more sensational than the later developments in the case, in which President Wilson took part. When their trials were ordered delayed by Attorney General McReynolds, the United States district attorney of California threw up his job. The president took a hand and ordered immediate prosecution, and appointed a special attorney to conduct it.

The latest oddity discovered in Africa is the "sneeze tree." Spasms of sneezing result from trying to cut it, and insects keep away from it.

LAND O'NOD STORIES

(By Howard T. Knapp.)

Billy Be By Bo Bum was as lazy as a tabby cat curled up in front of the fire. So it took him just about twice as long as usual to reach the Green Forest, and when he crawled through the hole in the stump fence that separated the big woods from the cow pasture, he sat down to rest, for he felt all tuckered out. He had hardly settled himself when he heard a voice calling:

"Lazybones, lazybones," and looking up he saw Tinker Teedle Tee, the merry little elf, swinging from the branches of a briar bush.

"I'm not a lazybones," retorted Billy Be By Bo Bum, for he did not like even the merry little elf to call him names.

"Then what under the sun is the matter?" asked Tinker. "You act as though you did not have spunk enough to drag one foot after the other. You're not sick, are you, Billy Boy?" and Tinker looked so solemn and worried that Billy laughed in spite of himself, although he did not feel the least bit like laughing at all, at all.

"I'm sure I don't know what is the matter," he replied, "but for the last two or three days I have been so tired I haven't wanted to do a thing but rest."

"Ho, ho, ho," shouted Tinker. "I know what is the matter with you. You have a touch of the Spring Fever," and the sly old rascal turned a backward somersault, a cartwheel or two and landed on a bed of moss, where he lay kicking up his heels and laughing until the tears rolled down his cheeks.

"What is the Spring Fever? asked Billy. "Will I have to go to bed and have the doctor?"

"Oh no, it isn't as bad as all that," chuckled the merry little elf. "In fact, that would be the worst thing in the world to do. But if you will sit down beside me here in the shade of this skunk cabbage, I'll tell you all about it."

"How—how in the world can I sit under the leaves of a skunk cabbage," demanded Billy.

"Oh, I forgot you are two or three hundred times larger than me," answered Tinker Teedle Tee, who, you know, was only about as big as a minute. "Well, then, sit down on this log and I'll perch myself on your knee.

"Now, then, once upon a time—that's the way all good stories begin, you know—once upon a time, when geese were swine and turkeys chewed tobacker, when houses were made of buckwheat cakes and bricks were made of batter, there lived a little boy who thought Winter was just the grandest time of all the year. He would rather go skating or coast down hill than go fishing for sunnies or swimming in the old mill pond.

"So when the sap started to run in the sugar mapies and the chickadees began to chirp the glad tidings, 'Spring soon, spring soon,' this little boy became as cross and grumpy as a bear with a sore head. For he knew the snow would soon be gone to make way for the grass and flowers and he liked the snow so much the very thought of warm weather made him as mad as a wet hen.

"Then one morning the jolly red sun told old Father Winter it was time for him to move on. Now Father Winter didn't want to go at all, at all, but the more he hung back the brighter and warmer shone Mr. Sun, so the old fellow knew he would have to take himself off for another year.

As he sneaked away to his home at the North Pole, the beautiful Spring Maiden came skipping over the hills from the sunny South, bringing with her the robins and bluebirds, the wrens and the bobolinks. Her breath was like a gentle breeze from the land of flowers, making the air soft and warm, and as she passed over fields and meadows, the grass sprang up fresh and green in her footsteps, the violets and daffodils awoke from their long winter's sleep and even the sober pines and hemlocks that wear the same dress the year round, took on a brighter hue when she touched their branches.

Now the little boy did not know Father Winter had been chased away to the frozen North, so the morning after the Spring Maiden arrived from the sunny Southland he started out from home with his sled, hoping he could coast down hill just once more. But the hill was bare and brown, and instead of snow he found nothing but mud on the road."

But just when Tinker reached this point of the story, Billy's mother came to the door and rang the supper bell.

Geewhiz!" said Billy, "I didn't know it was so late. Why couldn't she have waited just a little while longer."

"Never mind, Billy Boy," comforted the merry little elf. "You run along home now, and I will finish the story tomorrow."

And next week I'll tell you more about the Spring Maiden.

UNITED STATES PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE.

Good Teeth Essential to Good Health —Recent Medical Discoveries Prevent Dental Loss.

According to the United States public health service, there will be a falling off in the sale of store teeth in the future and plates and toothless gums will be seen less frequently than formerly. This is due to the epoch making discovery of the cause and method of treating what is known to the scientist as pyorrhea dentalis and alveolaris, and to the layman as Riggs disease. This is a suppuration around the roots of the teeth and causes an inflammation, which produces loosening and loss of the teeth. At one time or another practically everybody has Riggs disease. It is caused by a minute single-celled animal called the endamoeba buccalis. This malevolent parasite does its work in combination with the pus-producing bacteria or germs. The skillful team work between these two destroys the delicate membrane which surrounds the roots of the teeth and causes them to fall out.

The necessity of good teeth in order to have good health has been recognized a long time, but the scientists of our country have only recently worked out the relationship between decay of the teeth and Rigg's disease on one hand and rheumatism, serious heart disease and high blood pressure on the other. So firmly have these facts been proven that the modern up-to-date physician begins the treatment of such diseases by an inquiry into the condition of the teeth and their sockets. If these are found to be diseased, the condition is cured before the treatment goes any further. The discovery of the cause of Rigg's disease is, therefore, of the very greatest importance.

Just as soon as the cause of Rigg's disease was found out, the search for the cure began in earnest. It had been previously discovered that the use of ipecac would cure the diseases which are caused by infection of the intestine with endamoebae. From this it was deduced that a similar treatment would cause the destruction of endamoebae in the mouth. This was found to be the case, and emetin, the form of drug used, is now administered by physicians for the cure and prevention of the disease. It sometimes takes a considerable time to get rid of all of the malignant germs in this way, but the results which have been obtained have been remarkably good. The treatment is both local and general.

In the matter of preventing mouth disease it is important that the mouth be cleaned several times a day and that a dentist be visited frequently to remove tartar and the yellowish matter which accumulates along the inner edges of the teeth and between the teeth. This is particularly important in the case of children, because it has been found that many a child is apparently dull who is in reality suffering from a chronic poisoning produced by a mouth full of decaying teeth.

The number of sufferers from Rigg's disease in the United States is very large and the United States public health service is daily receiving inquiries as to the method of curing and preventing the disease.

How Billy Sunday Brings Young Men Home

On the deck of a fine passenger steamer plying between New York and Boston one fine morning an interesting group sat earnestly discussing a subject which seemed to engross the attention of every one. In the little gathering were dignified Episcopal rector, two or three professons of leading institutions of learning, some business men and others and the theme of conversation was the noted evangelist, "Billy" Sunday. Opinions regarding him and his work were freely expressed and there seemed to be but little difference among the majority of the speakers as the methods of the man were discussed.

"Some of Mr. Sunday's expressions are in gross violation of good taste" remarked the rector. "Why", he said, addressing some well known church members who had not been wholly consistent. "You are a breed of snakes. Who in the world has roused you up to get out here and take front seats. You'd better get a move on you and show up something to prove you are in the right way and you needn't think because your ancestors were the pillars in the church that you'll get through on that account."

"He violates all the rules of esthetic culture", said the professor of psychology in Columbia university. "He said some church members made him think of a graveyard. He said he was walking by a cemetery not long ago and saw there a very beautiful tomb, white, glistening in the sun, lovely and beautiful and then he held his nose as he thought of the inside and said some people who make pious professions are like that; it is utterly shocking to all good taste."

"And, he ridicules the power of prayer" suggested another speaker. "Why he said one night to some church members against whom he seems to have a particular grudge if they don't keep straight as he thinks they should. You are a lot of grinders. You even take away the widows' portion and then think you can square it with the Master by going to church and making long prayers. And then everybody looked at a man who was head of a life insurance company that had failed under rather suspicious circumstances and defrauded a good many but it did seem to me in very bad taste to use such shocking language."

At this moment a young man who had been an attentive listener but had said nothing, took a seat a little nearer and remarked: "It seems to me there are rather good precedents for the language you have been quoting."

"Good presedents?" said the rector and professor in the same breath. "Good precedents? Imagine the Master or any of his disciples using any such vulgar expressions. Impossible; unheard of; utterly out of the question."

At this the young man drew from his pocket a book that looked very much like a testament and remarked that he would like to have their attention for a moment, and then proceeded.

"Here are some words that come from a very high authority sanctioned by the Master. O generation of vipers; who has warned you to flee from the wrath to come. Bring forth therefore fruits, meet for repentance and think not to say within yourselves we have Anrahan to our father."

"It seems to me", looking hard at the rector, "there isn't a great deal of difference between breed of snakes and generation of vipers."

"O well, but then, you see, that is, why the cases are different", said the rector, moving uneasily in his chair.

"And regarding the tombs", said the young man mercilessly looking at the professor, "The Master Himself said, "Ye are like weited sepulchers, without fair to look upon but inwardly are full of dead men's bones. I don't see very much difference between sepulchers and tombs", remarked the speaker.

The professor tried to explain but his effort was a wretched failure.

By this time the group was considerably augmented by other passengers eager to hear the discussion so the young man turned to another place in his book and directing a searching glance at the last one who had quoted the evangelist, proceeded to read:

"We unto you Scribes, Phairsees, hypocrites. For ye devour widows' houses and for a pretense make long prayers; therefore the greater is your damnation. I don't remember ever hearing Mr. Sunday say anything worse than that or more contrary to the rules of esthetics and the One who uttered those words was the Ruler of the universe."

"The words yet ring in my ears".

"Ah, but then, why, that is—you see—he was, that is to say", and amid an illy suppressed titter the speaker subsided. The rector, the professor and the last man were very uncomfortable by this time but the young man didn't pursue the subject any farther for he had the air and manners of a cultivated gentleman.

"May I tell you a little story?" he asked.

"Go on" ardently shouted all but the three men and their immediate friends.

"One afternoon John Spencer and his wife drove home to their little farm after attending a Sunday school convention in the town near which they lived. Both were silent and both rode with aching hearts while unbidden tears would course down their furrowed cheeks. The ride was taken mostly in silence but at last Mr. Spencer spoke:

"That was a beautiful song, wasn't it mother?"

"Yes, it was, John".

"Oh where is my wandering boy tonight?"

"I wonder where our boy is" said the old lady, her voice choking with emotion as she spoke.

And well did she have reason to speak. Their only boy, Harry, was wandering somewhere that day and they didn't know where. He was a bright boy, they fondly thought, and they had mortgaged their little farm to send him to college and had high hopes of the future but after his graduation, when he sent them a program they had heard nothiug and several years had elapsed since that day and with sad hearts they continued their journey homeward.

And what about that wandering boy? He had fallen in with some college chums who were not really bad at heart but loved a good time above all things. One of them was the son of a noted broker and young Spencer secured a position with him and as the work was largely dealing on the board of trade he hesitated to let his parents know of the business in which he was engaged. He gained a little and made a number of deals and in nearly all he was successful until he went by the name of Lucky Hal".

He was the center of attraction at such times for he liked a good time too and would spend his money freely. Wine suppers, excursions and fishing expeditions varied the leisure time and the young coterie thought of nothing but their own amusement.

"Lucky Hal" withdrew from the firm and opened a real estate office and again was successful making a great deal of money some of which he prudently put by and some of which he bestowed on his companions and they were a merry lot with little care for this world or the world to come. Pleasure was their aim and they had it.

One evening they were assembled in their club room debating what next to do for a lark. One suggested a fishing excursion, another a hunting trip and another a boat ride but all seemed stale. At last one remarked,

"I say, boys; let's go to the Billy Sunday meeting in that big tabernacle tonight. They say he is mighty clever and the way he wades into inconsistent church members is a caution. He can't do us any harm and we may have a good change for a night, anyway." It was agreed and going early they secured a seat near the platform ready to take notes save up something for ridicule or criticism after the meeting and be entertained by the eccentric preacher.

The meeting was rather entertaining and the young men enjoyed the severe thrusts dealt inconsistent church members whom the preacher called breeds of snakes and the like and when he spoke of the hypocrites who defrauded poor widows and thought they could square it with their Lord by making long prayers the group almost laughed outright. They didn't wait to see how many went forward but hastened to the club room and unanimously agreed that they had enjoyed a first class entertainment and decided to go next night.

The next sermon was on booze and they smiled when he hit the church members who kept beer in their cellars and talked temperance outside but some things were not quite so amusing. He said that all who drank in moderation were far from temperate; the beer guzzlers and champagne topers and then he seemed to look into the hearts of all the group as he earnestly asked if there were any present whose conviviality had led any others astray who were not able to stop when they should. The young men winced at this for two of their coterie had been expelled because they had taken to drink owing to the appetite created by the wine suppers. They were a bit more sober as they assembled in the club room and one remarked,

"I do wonder if anybody has been telling the preacher about poor Tom and Charley?" referring to members who had once been princes of good fellows but hod gone down from the appetite created by the wine suppers.

They went a few more evenings and each one had a conviction he was ashamed to admit to the others. Finally one night the subpect was repentance and there was no mincing of words with the preacher. He said genuine repentance meant abstaining from any kind of wrong. It was of little use to go forward unless the person so doing meant to live differently. He mentioned several kinds of reformation and then, as if reading the very soul of Lucky Hal, he said,

"And have you an old father and mother whom you have forgotten? Are you swallowed up in the city and forgetful of your obligations to those who bore you?"

That night in the club room there was an unusual scene. Each one of the young men confessed his feelings and a desire to come out before the world and all agreed to see if they couldn't do it without going forward with all the indiscriminate throng which knelt in front of the platform each night.

They went to see Mr. Sunday at his hotel and told him their feelings and desires and asked him if they couldn't make a confession in some other way. The evangelist looked at them earnestly a moment and then said, "He that is ashamed of me before men of him will I be ashamed before my Father and the holy angels. Young gentlemen, the Lord wants no half way repentance and acknowledgement; if you are sincere come with the rest tonight and make your confession and may the dear Lord give you all grace to do it."

This was indeed a hard proposition but they all decided to do as he advised and next day they spent hunting up Tom and Charley. They found Tom but it took two days to locate poor Charley and both were truly on the ragged edge. That nightt they went forward and kentl along with the por and distressed: the lame, the halt and the dissipated and each found a peace he had never known before. The next morning they called again at the hotel and with tears in his eyes the evangelist took each by the hand and bade them God speed and urged them to go right to work seeing what they could do to help others on the way to a better life. He prayed earnestly with them and said goodbye and promised not to forget them ever.

They returned to their club room and held a council, not of war but of peace and discussed what they would do for their Master. First they prevailed on Tom and Charley to go to a cure and promised to stand by them until they were men again. They decided what each would do. As "Lucky Hal" was so capable at making money he was to keep on in his real estate and brokerage business but not to deal any more in futures or questionable options. Two of them decided to fit themselves for the ministry and the others made plans for usefulness and "Lucky Hal" promised his financial assistance.

And now, said Hal, I'm going home to the parents I have neglected so long and cruelly. He had been away so long and had changed so that hardly any one in the town recognized him. He stepped into the band which was officered by strangers to him and asked to have a bill changed and while there he overneard some one remark to the cashier of the bank: "Too bad poor old John Spencer is to loose his farm. I hear the mortgage is to be foreclosed as the holder will not renew it again." Hal was thunderstruck and calling the cashier into a private office asked him to send a messenger to the court house and ascertain the sum needed to redeem the place. The boy soon returned and Hal wrote out a check on his city bank and handing it to the cashier asked him to wire the city with a personal description and ascertain if the check was good. The cashier kindly waited after banking hours for the answer which was wholly favorable and then went to the sheriff and redeemed the place. Hal went to the livery stable and secured a driver and team to take him home and the time seemed an age so eager was he to get there. He reached the place a little after dark and sending the driver into the house with the canceled note and mortgage, he waited a moment for his return.

Mr. and Mrs. Spencer had just seated themselves for their evening meal and as the last words of the grace were said a knock at the door was answered by Mr. Spencer who received a formidable looking envelope and opening it was astonished at finding his note and mortgage canceled. In bewilderment the two old people were gazing at it and as they said, "What can it mean?" the door was burst open this time without ceremony and Hal rushing in and clasping his mother in his arms cried,

"Father, mother, your wandering boy has come home."

For a moment no one on the steamer deck said a word and more than one eye was moist but finally the professor rather solemnly remarked, "That was indeed a remarkable narrative but are you fortified regarding its veracity?"

"I am 'Lucky Hal', was the quiet response.

$200,000 STOCK FRAUD CHARGED

New York, June 12.—Charged with having sold between $200,000 and $400,000 worth of stock in a Peruvian gold mine scheme, which is declared to represent little, if any value, Raymond McCune, son of an associate of Morgan and Frick, will be given an examination today in the federal court. He is charged with using the mails in a scheme to defraud. He was the leading spirit in the Peruvian Gold Mining Co., and had many investors in Delaware. Glowing reports of gold deposits were told in the concern's circulars, and the stock sold heavily. Then one of the directors received word that there was no gold in the region and that the company had little, if anything, of value. The Deleware authorities turned the matter over to the United States authorities, who made an extensive inquiry, resulting in the arrest of McCune last month.

DURBIN CHURCH IS NOW TWENTY-FIVE YEARS OLD

Interesting Historical Sketch of the Society Prepared by Miss Emma Kirby.

At the recent celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of Durbin Methodist church, a historical sketch of a very interesting character was read by Miss Emma Kirby. The history set forth thep rincipal facts relating to the activities of the organization during the past quarter of acentury and is of such general interest that it is printed herewith.

There are red letter days in the history of every life—birthdays, graduation, marriage days, etc.; days when dear ones went away to the heavenly land, and as the years come and go, bringing with them beautiful anniversaries, live thoughtfully and tenderly, live joyfully. Sometimes we look forward to them. So the W. F. M. S. has its red letter days, to which we look forward as the seasons advance; beautiful times of rejoicing, all of them, but the day we are most especially interested in today is the 25th anniversary of the Durbin Auxiliary. It was one a bright, beautiful morning, the 8th day of June, 1890, that the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of Durbin was born, organized by Mrs. Jennie Rucker, then president of the Jacksonville district, with Rev. Charles Wehman pastor. The society was organized with the following officers:

President—Mrs. Emma Kirby.
Vice president—Mrs. W. L. Ransdell.
Second vice president—Mrs. Sisilda Rawlings.
Third vice president — Mrs. Mary Jones.
Secretary—Mrs. Annie Darley.
Corresponding secretary—Miss Mamie Ransdell.
Treasurer—Mrs. Mary Scott.

These, with the following members, constituted the society:

Mrs. Francis Rawlings, Messrs. James and J. H. Rawlings, Bell Vanstone, Thomas Jefferson, James Oxley, Samuel Darley, John Kerby and Miss Rachel Kerby, Jessie Jones, Maggie Scott, Marie Spencer, Leona Rawlings, W. L. Ransdell.

The first meeting was held at Mrs. Francis Rawlings' home on the following Wednesday. From that day we have held our regular meetings, with very few exceptions, when the weather would permit. Those twenty years have had their days of sorrow to mar the days of joy in the loss of members by death and removal. The first death occurred in the fourth year, when our beloved treasurer was called home. We have lost sixteen members by death, the loss falling heaviest in our twentieth year, when we lost four members. Each year we have lost members by removal. During the twenty-five years the society has paid into the conference treasury the noble sum of $1,732.78. Then we have paid small sums each year for current expenses of the society and district funds, made one life membership, colleges, hospitals and schools, besides sending out two young girls to establish Christian homes. We now support an orphan in India, have a scholarship in India, a bible woman in Kieu Kiang, China. All these years we have kept in close touch and sympathy with the work of Miss Kate Blackburn of Bulgaria, who will speak to us today as she has visited us on each vacation home. During the 25 yrs. we were invited into almost every home in the community to hold meetings. This we most heartily appreciate. We look forward to the next 25 years for far greater results, better and wider knowledge of the mission field and its needs. The years gone by have brought strength, faith and courage and increased knowledge and power, a wider understanding of the problems and the means of overcoming difficulties. Still, as of old, our confidence is and must be the Almighty is the treasurer when the funds are low and the problems grave. It is our privilege now, as it was in that day of feeble beginnings, to turn to the Almighty for strength and to His strong arm for safety.

EAGLES VS. DIVERNON.

Divernon will be the Eagles opponent today. This team was the only one to defeat the Eagles last year. Cy Rolfe probably will pitch for Divernon while Travis of Havana will work for the Eagles.

To those who attend the games the management wishes to announce that owing to the recent rains it will be impossible for automobiles to get to the ball grounds. Buggies and surreys can make the trip. The best way to go is on the street cars and then down the Chicago & Alton track to the last foot path where the walking will be found all right.

The lineup:

Divernon—Sambo, 3b; H. Young, ss; D. Young, c; Turley, lf; P. Jones, rf; McTaggart, cf; O. Jones, 2b; L. Young, 1b; Rolfe, p.

Eagles—Denny, 2b; Wheeler, ss; De Frates, 3b; Clark, c; Caristopher, lf; Woodman, cf; McCollister, 1b; Smith, rf; Travis and Wright, p.

MONDAY NIGHT CELEBRATION PROMISES TO BE IMPORTANT

Arrangements Completed for Proper Observance of Flag Day—New Boulevard System Will Be Ready.

Secretary Weber of the Chamber of Commerce has practically completed arrangements for the boulevard light celebration which will be held Monday evening, July 14th. This date has bene selected in order to combine in the celebration features appropriate to Flag Day.

The various lodges having uniform drill teams have enthusiastically accepted the invitation to take part in the parade and provide special drills for the occasion. Jeffries' Concert Band has kindly offered its services to Mr. Weber both for parade and concert work and the Old Soldiers and Company B. will turn out in full force and add special interest to the event.

The lights will be turned on with appropriate ceremonies in front of the court house and the parade will start promptly at 7:30 p. m.

The line of march will be as follows: East on West State street to the square, around the south side of the square to East State street, east on East State street to post office, countermarch around north side of square to the southwest corner, which will be roped off and reserved for the exhibition and drill work.

The D. O. K. K. drill team will have some special parade work and will give an exhibition drill in their usual faultless manner. This will be followed by a special drill by the Woodmen Foresters under the command of Chief Forester Fernandes. Company B. will add some special features and this part of the program will be conducted by a flag salute given by the Woman's Relief Corps at which time the entire assembly will join in singing the first and last verses of "America" led by Jeffries' Concert Band.

After the drill work a short patriotic program will be given in the pagoda. Professor Rayhill will give a stirring selection entitled "Old Glory". Several short speeches will be made and the program will end with a concert by Jeffries' band.

It is quite probable that a delegation from the Red Men will have a prominent place in the parade and program. They will be dressed in regulation costumes and will demonstrate the patriotism of the dusky red brother.

The formation of the parade will be as follows:

Chief Marshall T. H. Buckthorpe and Aids.
Platoon of Police.
Jeffries Concert Band.
Modern Woodmen Drill Team.
McCarthy's Arabs.
Company B. 5th Infantry, I. N. G.
Old Soldiers.
Woman's Relief Corps.
School Children with Flags.
D. A. R. and Citizens in Automobiles and Carriages.

Mr. Weber suggests that all the stores decorate in honor of the occasion and leave their window lights burning during the evening. A cordial invitation is extended to all to take part in the parade with decorated automobiles and carriages.

MOVIES IN THE SIGN LANGUAGE SHOWN AT SCOTT'S THEATER

Program a Feature of the Reunion of School for the Deaf Graduates—Pictures in the Sign Language Shown for the First Time on Any Screen.

For the first time in the history of the moving picture business in Jacksonville pictures portraying scenes in the "deaf world" were thrown on the screen at Scott's theater Saturday morning. The occasion was a feature of the reunion of the Illinois Association for the Deaf and the Alumni Association of the Illinois School for the Deaf.

Probably three nundred witnessed the pictures, including members of the two associations and invited guests. Five thousand feet of films were shown and all of them were portrayals of the sign language. These pictures were all suitable for the occasion and gave scenes that were of particular interest to the auditors. A number of people, including Superintendent Gillette interpreted the signs for those who did not know them. Each film was greeted with appreciation.

Something that many people do not realize is the unconscious grace that is acquired by all those who use the sign language. A sermon might be written on the truth of the sign language, and, many of the actors and actresses, even outside of the Movies, and on the so-called legitimate stage might profit by watching a portrayal by one well versed in the sign language.

Perhaps the best of the films shown were those of Dr. Edward Allen Fay, portraying the visit of Emperor Dom Pedro to Gallaudet college in Washington and Dr. McGregor in a Lay Sermon. These were splendid portrayals and met with much applause from the audience. Other films shown were, liknesses of the heads of Schools in the various states; group of the convention of the American instructors for the Deaf held at Staunton, Va.; plea for a statue for Sicard in America, by Rev. J. H. McCloud and Rev. Fr. McCarthy; signs by Dr. J. S. Long; the Death of Minnehaha by Mary Williamson Erd, introduction by Jay Cook Howard, and the Lord's Prayer by the Rev. George Flick.

The program was arranged by the local committee and was a pleasing feature of the reunion.

MRS. LYON'S ACHES AND PAINS

Have All Gone Since Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Terre Hill, Pa.—"Kindly permit me to give you my testimonial in favor of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. When I first began using it I was suffering from female troubles for some time and had almost all kinds of aches—pains in lower part of back and in sides, and pressing down pains. I could not sleep and had no appetite. Since I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the aches and pains are all gone and I feel like a new woman. I cannot praise your medicine too highly."—Mrs. AUGUSTUS LYON, Terre Hill, Pa.

It is true that nature and a woman's work has produced the grandest remedy for woman's ills that the world has ever known. From the roots and herbs of the field, Lydia E. Pinkham, forty years ago, gave to womankind a remedy for their peculiar ills which has proved more efficacious than any other combination of drugs ever compounded, and today Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is recognized from coast to coast as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing hundreds of thousands of letters from women seeking health—many of them openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; and in some cases that it has saved them from surgical operations.

When Glands Swell Blood Needs Attention

Even a Sweat Gland May Result in Severe Consequence.

In our intricate body the use of S. S. S. for the blood has a most remarkable influence. We little realize our glandular system. It may be a tiny bulb no bigger than a pin point, and yet if a disease germ gets into it, there is a tremendous swelling. It becomes a boil, a carbuncle, it may be a "blood rising," and it is often a source of continuous misery if not checked. Many of the most excruciating forms of torture begin with the swelling of a tiny gland, caused by a disease germ. And it is S. S. S. that spreads throughout the blood circulation to prevent just such conditions. Or if they have already started, S. S. S. will soon put the blood in such a state of health as to overcome the tendency to glandular swellings. It is a natural medicine for the blood, just as essential to health if the blood be impure, as are the meats, fats, grains and sugars of our daily food.

It contains one ingredient the active purpose of which is to stimulate the exchange of new flesh for dead or waste matter.

Get a bottle of S. S. S. today of any druggist, and if your case is stubborn, write to the Medical Adviser, The Swift Specific Co., 108 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. This department is in charge of a noted physician.

PROTECT YOUR HOMES AGAINST FLIES!

Flies are annoying in the home but the danger of disease from them is far more important.

You cannot "swat" all the flies but you can keep them all out of your home if you let us make the screens. They will cost you little more than the ready made kind and will certainly fit.

NORTH SIDE PUMPING STATION IN COMMISSION AGAIN

Inconvenience from High Water Past—Plan Protecting Walls—More Wells to be Sunk.

The inconvenience caused at the north side pumping station by the overflow water from Manvaisterre creek has passed and it was possible to resume pumping there Friday night. The water as previously stated surrounded all the pump houses but the power house is on rising ground and foundations which place it at least eight feet above the water level.

To provide against possible like inconvenience in the future, Commissioner Vasconcellos after looking over the situation in company with Mayor Rodgers has determined to build concrete foundations under each one of the small well-houses of such height that water cannot flow into the wells in case of flood. As it is now the casing in the wells is only a little higher than the level of the ground and the light foundations do not offer any protection against water from the outside. The proposed work will cost comparatively little and will not change at all the methods of operating the well machinery. In order to wash out any unwholesome water which may have flowed into the wells from the surface the plan was followed of shutting the valves in most of the first ward area, then opeaeing the fire plugs and pumping the water out. The pipes were then flushed with clear water from the wells with the result that in the general supply no difference could be noted by the consumer.

Water Consumption Increases.

With the coming of warm weather the consumption of water has naturally increased and there is the likelihood that it will very soon be necessary to do some pumping from the south plant. If this is done soon there will no doubt be some complaints of dirty water in the mains but this condition will be inevitable. The recent heavy rains have made the water in the lake very dirty and it will not clear for some days to come.

Commissioner Vasconcellos said yesterday that the impounding reservoir was 36 inches lower Saturday morning than it had been on Friday, and unless a very good gain colud be made today on account of decreased consumption, that not later than tonight or tomorrow morning it will be necessary to get a portion of the supply from the south station. The commissioner was anxious that the public understand the condition and realize that if the water supply is discolored during the next few days that it is inevitably so.

Plans More Wells.

For some days Mayor Rodgers and Mr. Vasconcellos and other members of the council have been informally considering the possibility of increasing the supply from the north station. The needs of more wells is very clear and it has been determined that very soon something will be done in the line of definite work. It is believed that it will be just about as economical to sink a well two or three feet in diameter and then case it with concrete as to drill a well of some other size.

It seems that the installation of a centrifugal pump together with a motor to operate itwould cost only about $400, whereas the alternating type of pump with brass fittings, and etc., with which each well is now equipped costs about $2,500. While all the plans for development at the north side station are not complete, there has come the definite decision that there must be more wells there in order that under usual conditions the entire city supply can be taken from that source without the necessity of pumping from the south side. This decision has been reached not only because of the better quality of the supply but because the cost of operation will be less when it is a settled fact that a supply fully equal to the daily consumption can be secured from the north side plant.

TELL US WHY IT IS?

Saturday afternoon a Journal reporter saw a large crowd congregated in Central Park. Thinking it was a dog fight or a riot he hasfened to the scene. Arriving there he found a traveling religionist propounding some kind of new religion. The large crowd around had no seats. They stood upon their marrow bones. The reporter after listening to part of the sermon went down East State street to the Pacific hotel. On the way back he again stopped at the gospel stand. The same men were still standing there in open mouthed appreciation of the preacher's remarks. Now most of these same individuals would not go to church if you went for them in an automobile and then gave them a plush cushion to sit on after they got there. Yet they stood in the park for over an hour and listened to this unknown. Can you tell why?

HAIL INJURED APPLES.

John Hadden of the Joy Prairie neighborhood was exhibiting Saturday a number of apples which he had picked from a tree on his farm. Each one had quite a hole cut in the side and Mr. Hadden said that practically all of the apples on the tree had been damaged in this way by the hail last Monday morning. The apples give an indication of the force and sharpness of the hailstones which fell at that time and did so much damage to growing crops.

WRITES OF THE SPECIALIST IN CHICKEN RAISING.

D. T. Heimlich, who has a national reputation as a breeder and judge of fine poultry, has an article in the June issue of the Poultry Tribune which should prove of great interest to local poultry fanciers. The article follows:

This is the age, though but the beginning of the twentieth century, where success awaits hi mor her who finds among the 140 or more breeds and varieties given recognition in our American Standard of Perfection one variety to be studied from its foundation to its nearness and perfection; taken up and bred by rule, system, type and color so that for several generations the mind can recall details of merit and faults of each successive generation of chicks brought to maturity, eliminating and retaining qualities, types and colors that conform nearest to the Standard requirements. Thus, for instance, we take the Rhode Island Reds, the latest breed that today has more admirers and breeders than any one of the many Standard breeds. How did it happen that they became so popular in so brief a time and with such handicaps as the worst mixtures of types and colors imaginable. They are here to stay for the simple reason that the large majority of those who have taken them up find in them so many admirable features of good quality that they will not let go. Yet the fact remains they lack in many points what is needed to fill the Standard requirements. They came to us at a time when the utility questions of Standard fowls were being discussed. They ranked in form and size from a Leghorn to a Brahma and in color from a buff to a mahogany brown, with every other color from white to black mixed in the plumage, yet in less than fifteen years they are bred by more people today than any other Standard fowl and they are far from perfect in the hands of the greater majority who breed and advertise them. There were a few wise heads who realized the importance of careful study in selection. Such fanciers made close observation in their breeding and by judicious selection and skill produced a foundation that fixed most desirable characteristics in the progeny, which in turn could again be relied upon to reproduce their kind in greater numbers until they reached their proper valuation from both utility and Standard requirements and are with us to stay as one of the greatest breeds to bring perfection.

Ther is not a variety in the Standard today but what can be popularized if they are exhibited and advertised as they should be. Breeding Standard poultry is a science. It requires thought, study and a natural love for the variety to be cultivated. Those who have made the greatest success with any breed or variety have first formed ideals. Thus we have I. K. Felch, the first in rank who produced Light Brahmas as but few, even in the palmiest days of their popularity, were able to show. A Felch-bred Brahma 25 years ago was recognized wherever we set eyes on one and are today, when direct from his yards. There were others in their day who produced high-class riage possessed by no other. So had a personality, a style and carspecimens, but a Felch male always with our modern Leghorn. The breeders who have by selection of fine style, good size, finely balanced bodies, neat, fine quality combs, lower tail carriage, better length of legs, plumage white, with as little sacrifice of leg color as possible, have given the breeders a better layer, a more popular fowl by far than the original creeper style of old, which had a comb as large as a hand and tail carried over the back, touching the head. These changes to finer forms of beauty and color could only come about by study and selection and the proper ambition to accomplish something worthy, and now is strong evidence as growing into greater favor with every season's output.

Men and women who today have ambitions to accomplish something worth while should decide on some one of our many varieties, delve into the depths of the laws of breeding, carefully study what the clubs have put forth as ideals and the American Poultry association has adopted in the Standard of Perfection as ideals to work for and become identified as members of their club; also members of the greatest live stock association in the world, the American Poultry association, and thus boost themselves, and for the mutual good and benefit of the thousands to come into the ranks as factors to progress onward and upward to higher ideals.

W. C. T. U. MET.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union met in regular session Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Hopper. Nine members were present and two visitors.

After the business was disposed of by the president, Miss Mary Spencer had charge of the program which was very interesting as well as instructive. The subject for study was "Flower Mission Work". Sketches from the life of Miss Jennie Cassiday were read by Miss Spencer. Mrs. Lucia Smith told of the "Flower Mission Work in Florida", also what is meant by the "Flower Mission Day". Miss Oletha Brown rendered a very appropriate piano solo. A paper written on "The Benefit of Flowers" was read by Mrs. Agnew.

Mrs. Hopper served the ladies with refreshments which were enjoyed by all, after which a rising vote of thanks was given Miss Spencer for her excellent and well rendered program.

GOOD ROADS RELATED TO SOCIAL CONDITIONS

COUNTRY LIFE MOVEMENT DEPENDENT ON THEM.

Development of Community Social Centers Impossible Unless Road Conditions Are Good—This Fact Pointed Out by Commission.

(By W. H. Rayner, Civil Engineering Department, University of Illinois —Article III.)

Now let us look at some of the specific needs in our rural life as it now exists and see what aid must be sought to meet these needs. No discussion of this subject would be complete without recognizing the new country life movement which is under way and considering the place good roads will take among the forces which are to carry this movement forward.

The Country Life Commission appointed by President Roosevelt after a careful and painstaking study of conditions in all parts of our country, reported four things as necessary for proper plans for the improvement of conditions on the farm. First, knowledge or possession of all the facts about farming necessary for such plans; second, education which shall be better suited to a farming community, calculated to awaken and stimulate an intelligent interest in scientific methods of farming and in a proper development of the community life; third, organization, which is indispensable if farmers are to work together for improved conditions; fourth, a recognition of the value of spiritual forces in the program for improved conditions.

The commission, in its report, gives unwarranted space, one might think, to the need for new and more abundant life in the country through such spiritual forces as the church, the Y. M. C. A., social centers, better housing and living conditions for the farmers' family and farm labor and more wholesome means of recreation, the improvement of conditions affecting the life of women on the farm, etc.

In his book on "The Country Life Movement," Professor L. H. Bailey, in referring to the needs of country life, says: "It may first be said that the reconstruction of the open country must depend on the country people themselves . . . and stated in its large terms, the open country will rise no higher than the aspirations of the people who live there. . . . It may then be said that it is the first duty of every man to earn a decent living for himself and those dependent on him, and a countryman cannot expect to have much influence in his time and community until he makes his farm pay in dollars and cents.

"But the final object in life is not to make money, but to use money in developing a higher type of endeavor and a better neighborhood. The richest farming regions do not necessarily have the best society or even the best living conditions. Social usefulness must become a fact in country districts." And he concludes by sawying: "Standards of service must take the place of standards of property."

And so it is clear that if our rural life is to conform to the "highest American ideals," all these forces must be given wide and free range of action. The country churches must be improved by unity of spirit, if not of form, as opposed to sectarian strife—better ministers must be secured, higher salaries paid, which means in many places fewer churches and larger congregations.

The Y. M. C. A. is needed in the country districts, preaching its doctrine of the development of the whole man—body, mind and spirit—and to establish wholesome organized play and recreation. This is undoubtedly one of the greatest needs to make the country life attractive to the young men and boys and to keep them on the farm. Parents require their boys to work all day during the summer months, six days in the week, and are then horrified when they seek some play or recreation at a game of baseball on Sunday. A half holiday each week during the summer and hard roads to enable him to mount his bicycle and ride to any part of the community for an afternoon of real sport, with a good coach to direct and lead, would go a long way toward solving the problem of keeping the boy on the farm.

Social centers, probably at the commodious consolidated school building or church, are needed to enable the community to get together often for the discussion of local problems, (to meet the need filled by the town paper), for concerts, moving pictures and to house good libraries. Women's clubs would meet there, men would gather to receive instructions in agriculture and women for instruction in household science from the extension department of the university—in fact, such centers would make available and usable all the valuable assets of the community and state. Very likely under such conditions the land owner would prefer to remain on his land and build additional buildings for his tenants and co-operate in the development of his farm and community, rather than move to town to become a "chair warmer" at the corner grocery.

Now all this discussion may seem considerably remote from the subject of good roads, or at least the connection seems a feeble one. But the Gordian knot which ties these forces to the subject of good roads is just our general principle stated above, that good roads have the effect of increasing the density of the rural population, thereby making possible these desired improvements.

Next week we shall discuss "Bad Roads Hinder Progress."

DOGS FORM MENANCE TO MANY FARM COMMUNITIES

Uses for These Animals Often Exaggerated — Neighborhood Agreements Often Prevent Sheep Losses.

(By W. C. Coffey, Sheep Husbandry Department University of Illinois —Article I.)

We are told that the dog is merely a domesticated wolf. Just what incentive man had for turning the wolf into a dog is something we do not definitely know. He may have dragged the dog's wild forfather exultingly into camp as a trophy of the chase, or he may have captured the young through a desire for pets, or he may have placed his restraining hand on him for the purpose of enlisting his services in the chase after animal prey.

The very fact that the story of the dog's domestication is lost in the night of time makes us realize as in no other way that he and man have been associated for a long, long time. Fond memories of a dog, which in some way contributed to the joy of living, linger in the minds of nearly all men and women. And we have but to draw upon our common knowledge to realize that there is a vast amount of sentiment for the dog. This sentiment is too deep rooted for us to ignore it, and it is stroking human nature in the wrong direction to do even so much as to discourage it.

There is need, however, of scrutinizing such a spontaneous growth as our sentiment for dogs to see whether or not it is covered over with foolish views. Because the dog descended from the wild and roving wolf, we have fallen into the habit of maintaining that he must have a chance to go out at will and take his exercise without restraint. Now this view is both foolish and unreasonable, for a dog can live and be happy if restrained to a much smaller territory than he would roam over if left to his own inclination. If the dog must be given unlimited freedom, so must other classes of animals, such as horses, cattle, sheep and swine, for they, too, came from wild progenitors that ranged over large areas.

Exaggerated Notion of Usefulness.

Another foolish view about dogs is our exaggerated notion of their usefulness. How often we hear remarks to this effect: "I do not see how in the world we could get along without our dog." If the person making such a remark were pressed for an enumeration of services rendered by the dog, he would very likely hand in a very short list. The fact is that the dog does not do much of anything which can be said to have money value. But see what happens when the dog damages some one's property and the demand is made that he be put out of existence. Very often the owner refuses to admit the dog's guilt and he flatly refuses to have him killed. He considers the complaint against the dog as one against himself. The hardship of having to give him up grows greater hourly. He does not see how any other dog could in any way satisfactorily replace the one whose life is now demanded. No sir, there is no other dog that is in any way near his equal. And we draw the curtain as the owner falls over in an apoplectic fit of frenzy.

Irresponsible Owners.

Still another view prevalent about dogs is that any person can own one irrespective of whether this person is in a position to be responsible for the dog's conduct. If a child wants a puppy he should have it, and if it gets into mischief, the father of the child can, as a rule, throw off responsibility by saying: "The pup is my child's plaything." ut there are grown-ups who cannot or will not be responsible for the misdeeds of their dogs, and it seems as though they form the bulk of the dog owning class. Their dogs, numerous and ubiquitous, are detrimental to public welfare, as we shall later attempt to show, and it is time for counter sentiment to rise against them.

Not long ago a metropolitan newspaper came out with a long editorial under the headline, "Keep dogs out of cities and prevent the dreadful menace of hydrophobia." As this editorial ably points out, hydrophobia in dogs is a menace to city life, hence the city has a serious dog problem to solve. Dogs in the cities are maintained almost solely as pets, and the fact that unleashed curs are allowed to run at large there further emphasizes the foolish sentiment prevalent in favor of irresponsible persons owning dogs. The editorial in question realizes the force of this sentiment by saying that an epidemic of rabies should not be necessary to awaken people to their danger. In the main, the writer of the editorial would deal a death blow to all dogs in crowded communities, but he stated the crux of the situation in the following words: "Any loose cur in the city can, in half an hour's time, spread his malady among scores of other dogs, the aristocratic household pets as well as the vagrant brutes that travel with him."

While hydrophobia is not as much of a menace to human life in country communities as in urban centers, it is to be reckoned with, nevertheless. Just now there is a large community in Oregon seriously concerned over the fact that coyotes maddened by rabies are making vicious attacks on people.—In Farmers' Review.

CLOTHING RELATED TO GENERAL HEALTH

TOO MUCH OR TOO LITTLE IS UNHYGIENIC.

Study or Dress Makes Certain Its Effect on Healthful Living—Different Textile Fabrics Should Be Considered.

(By Georgia E. Fleming, Department of Household Science, University of Illinois—Article III.)

In the beginning it was said that clothing in relation to health should be a determining factor in its selection. The garments which are next to the skin should be most carefully considered. The body maintains in health a constant temperature of 98.6 degrees Fahrenheit. If we wear an insufficient amount of clothing we must eat more food in order to provide the energy to keep this temperature or the body becomes chilled. The best rule is to change clothes with the weather, not with the season. It is just as unhygienic to wear too much clothing on a warm day as too little on a cold day, for when we are overheated a sudden draft makes us feel uncomfortably chilly.

Another requisite for the clothing is that it allows for the absorption of perspiration. The different textile fibers vary in their absorptive ability. Wool takes up moisture slowly, but may hold from 30 to 50 per cent of its weight before it is noticeably damp. Cotton and linen do not absorb so much water, but dry out very readily, thus making ideal materials for summer underwear. Silk absorbs a large amount of water and dries readily, so it feels cooling to the skin, but its expense bars it from a wider use.

Undergarments should also be porous, so that the skin may be ventilated. The excretory products should be removed and if the underwear is knitted or loosely woven an exchange of air is allowable. Now to keep cold winds and drafts from penetrating to the skin, our outer garments should be more closely woven, not necessarily much thicker and heavier, but perhaps lined, for a dead air space between two layers acts as a non-conductor of heat from the body.

In a study of the dress of promitive peoples the world over we find that perhaps the most important reason for wearing clothes is not primarily for protection, nor even for modesty, but chiefly for purposes of decorating the body. All of us have an innate love of beauty and strivee to express it in our clothes. It is right that we should try to appear at our best, for it is our duty to be as pleasing to our family and friends as we can. This aesthetic side of the dress question, however, should be subordinate to the health factor.

Unfortunately fashion predominates over most of us when we are selecting our wardrobe. When fashion rst entered in the fifteenth century the changes were apaprent more in the development of new materials every year or so. Later on details of the dress were changed until today almost the entire garment undergoes a complete transformation every season.

And yet women blindly follow in the path of fashion. So long as educated people permit themselves to be slaves the goddess of fashion will lead them. Rather, we should select the good points in a style and use them, for if we attempt to dress out of fashion entirely we are more conspicuous than ever.

Consciously or unconsciously these factors influence us when we are selecting our clothes. Perhaps those which are the most important are not always given their true value. A serious study of the question and a knowledge of textiles will enable us to make our money go much farther and aid us in our desire to be well dressed women.

CORN BREEDING BRINGS SRARTLING RESULTS

Experiments Illustrate Great Possibilities in Modifying the Character of Corn.

(By Dr. L. H. Smithe, Professor of Plant Breeding, University of Illinois—Article II.

No less remarkable, but perhaps somewhat more striking because of the nature of the characters involved, have been the results of selection to modify certain physical characteristics of the corn plant, particularly with respect to the position of the ear on the stalk. In 193 a variety of corn was taken for selection to modify the height at which the ear is borne. In brief, the results have been such that by continually selecting, for high ears in one strain and for low ears in another, two very different kinds have been evolved, so that last year the ears in the high ear strain measured 62½ inches from the ground, while those in the low ear strain were borne at 18 inches. That is to say, there was an average difference in the height of ear in the two strains amounting to nearly four feet. The effect was even more striking in the more favorable season two years ago when the difference in height of ears amounted to 4½ feet.

Similarly through seed selection, two strains of opposite character have been established from a single variety in which the character modified is the angle at which the ear hangs on the stalk. Thus by selection for erect ears in one strain and declining ears in another the difference between the two as measured by declination of the ear from the stalk amounted last year to nearly 60 degrees.

The above described experiments taken from the corn breeding investigations serve to illustrate how it is possible to modify the characters of corn and how faithfully this plant responds to the will of the plant breeder. They furnish invaluable data showing "how" selection operates, but they do not enlighten us very much regarding the "why." Other comprehensive investigations are under way in which these more fundamental principles are being studied.

FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE DISCUSSED

MALADY CONFINED TO CLOVEN-FOOTED ANIMALS.

Characterized by an Eruption of Vesicles or Blisters on the Mucous Membrane of the Mouth and on Skin—Difficult to Determine Specific Organic Cause.

Foot and Mouth Disease.

(Now that the excitement in regard to control of fott and mouth disease in the state has passed, it will be well for the sake of safety in the future for citizens of the state to read a sane statement of the nature of the disease by an expert.)

Nature and Characteristics.

(By John R. Mohler, V. M. D., Assistant Chief Bureau of Animal Industry.)

Foot-and-mouth disease, also known as aphthous fever, epizootic aphtha and eczeme contagiosa, is an acute, highly communicable disease chiefly confined to cloven-footed animals and characterized by an eruption of vesicles or blisters on the mucous membrane of the mouth and on the skin between the toes and above the hoofs. The vesicles rupture, forming erosions and ulcerations; there are also salivation, tenderness of the affected parts, loss of appetite, lameness, emaciation and diminution in the quantity of milk secreted.

The tremendous ravages of the disease are seen in the number and variety of the species attacked. While it may be regarded as essentially a disease of cattle, hogs would seem to be as easy a prey. Almost in the same grade of receptivity are sheep and goats. Next in order of susceptibility come the buffalo, American bison, camel, chamois, llama, giraffe and antelope. Horses, dogs, cats and even poultry may occasionally become infected with the disease, the last three being particularly dangerous as carriers of the contagion. Man himself is not immune, and the frequency of his infection by coming in contact with diseased animals is established by numerous observations.

As with other communicable diseases, the source and origin of foot-and-mouth disease have given rise to much speculation. The disease has been known in Europe for centuries, but it was not until comparatively recent years that the erroneous conceptions of its spontaneous origin as a result of climatic and meteorological conditions, exhausting journeys, etc., were abandoned. It is now conceded that foot-and-mouth disease is propagated by a specific virus and that every outbreak starts from some pre-existing outbreak.

Investigators have so far been unable to identify or isolate the specific organism causing the disease, although numerous attempts have been made to cultivate and stain it by laboratory methods. Experiments have shown that the virus will pass through standard germ-proof filters, thus indicating its minute size and the reason it has not been detected by the staining methods. The contagion may be found in the serum of the vesicles on the mouth, feet and udder; in the saliva, milk and various secretions and excretions; also in the blood during the rise of temperature.

A wide distribution of the virus and a rapid infection of a herd is the result. Animals may be infected directly, as by licking, and in calves by sucking, or indirectly by such things as infected manure, hay, utensils, drinking troughs, railway cars, animal markets, barnyards and pastures. Human beings may carry the virus on their shoes and clothing and transmit it on their hands while milking, since the udder is occasionally the seat of the eruption. It may also be carried by dogs, cats, rats, chickens, pigeons, etc. Milk in a raw state may also transmit the disease to animals fed with it.

The observations made by some veterinarians would lead us to suppose that the virus is quite readily destroyed. It is claimed that stables thoroughly cleaned become safe after drying for a short time. Hence, litter of all kinds, such as manure or soiled hay and straw, may remain infective for a longer time because they do not dry out. Other authorities maintain that the virus is quite tenacious and may live in stables evening so long as a year. They also state that animals which have passed through the disease may be a source of infection for several months after recovery.

Unlike most other infectious diseases, foot-and-mouth disease may attack the same animals repeatedly. No definite immunity is conferred by an attack.

The period of incubation (that is, the time elapsing between the exposure of an animal to infection and the development of the disease in that animal) is variable, usually from three to six days. The disease may appear in twenty-four hours, or in exceptional cases, not for 18 days or even longer.—Farmers' Bulletin 666.

SOFT CHEESES CAN BE MADE ON AVERAGE FARM

Use of Separator Makes New Line of Industry Possible—Skim Milk Usable for Various Kinds of Cheese.

(By C. R. Nickolls, Student University of Illinois.)

Since the invention of the hand separator many farmers who formerly made butter and sold it at the local grocery are now skimming milk and shipping the cream to the centralizers. The by-product, skim milk, is usually fed to pigs and calves. Another use for skim milk is being developed in the manufacture of soft cheeses of various types. Every grocery carries in stock some cottage, club and pimento cheese. The finer varieties of these are put up by cheese companies, but the cottage is not made by these companies, thus leaving an opportunity for the farmer to supply the demand. It is altogether possible for a farmer who is selling cream from eight or ten cows to build up a trade in one or two kinds of soft cheese, if he is careful to make a uniformly good and desirable product.

In order to do this there are some precautions that must be observed. Three essential points are temperature, cleanliness and attention at the proper time. Some equipment not usually found on the farm is necessary. A thermometer, starter and some means of maintaining constant temperature are indispensable. Rennet extract is also used in making some kinds of soft cheese. The thermometer and rennet extract may be purchased from any dairy supply house. Cooling may be done by setting the can of milk in a tank or tub of cold water. When it is desired to pasteurize milk in quantities and the farmer is not equipped with a boiler for heating water, this may be accomplished by setting the can of milk in a larger can containing water, giving the effect of a double boiler. Care must be taken that the milk is stirred constantly during heating and cooling. The most desirable type of can is that known as the shotgun can, having straight sides and holding about four gallons of milk. A satisfactory starter may be made by the following method:

Perfectly clean, fresh milk is heated to 90 degrees Fahrenheit. It is held at this temperature for 24 hours, when it should be sufficiently sour to be ready for use. The starter is continued from day to day by adding a little of that already prepared to some skim milk that has been heated to 180 degrees for 30 minutes, then cooled to 70 degrees Fahrenheit, allowing the mixture to stand at 70 degrees until the next day. If proper care is taken to have all utensils sterilized and the temperature conditions are observed, the farmer should have but little difficulty in maintaining a starter that will be satisfactory. A good starter has a clean, mild aroma and a sharp taste, without moldiness or yeasty flavor.

Those cheeses most easily made and marketed by the farmer are cottage and pimento. Neufchatel is a very salable cheese in some markets, especially if well made, but it is difficult to produce Neufchatel chees of a good quality without adequate facilities for controlling temperatures.

Cottage cheese is made by taking fresh, sweet skim milk and adding starter at the rate of one-half to one gallon to each five gallons of skim milk. Allow it to stand over night at a temperature of 70 to 75 degrees Fahrenheit. eLt it stand until the milk is well clabbered, but not until the whey is separated in any quantity from the curd. Some experience is necessary in order to enable one to determine the time of pouring at it which best results are obtained. When it is ready, cut or break the curd up fine and heat gradually to a temperature of 90 degrees Fahrenheit, taking about thirty minutes to raise to that temperature. If a coarse body is desired, do not break the curd too much. The curd should be stirred quite often and held at 90 degrees for fifteen minutes. It is then poured into a cheesecloth straining sack and strained. The draining may be hastened by twisting the cloth. When the whey is all drained off, knead the curd well with the hands to give it a smooth body. Some cream or melted butter may be added if it is too dry, or to give it a richer and more creamy flavor. If properly made, the addition of cream or butter fat is not necessary. Salt is added at the rate of two ounces for each ten pounds of curd, or to suit the taste. Cottage cheese is marketed in various containers. The common oyster pail is a very convenient package. When held in bulk cottage cheese should be kept in earthenware or enamelware continers.

DENIES GOVERNMENT CHARGE.

Chicago, June 11.—Benjamin Schneewind, manager of a candy factory owned by the Corn Products Refining company, testified for the defense today in the government's anti-trust suit against the company. He denied a charge of the government that the company had established the candy factory to throttle manufacturers of candy who did not buy glucose from them.

WORLD'S MARKET NEWS

FEAR OF DAMAGE FROM HEAVY RAINS BRINGS WHEAT ADVANCE

Anxiety as to the Spring Crop Becomes the Leading Influence Affecting Wheat Market—Corn Gains in Value.

Chicago, June 12.—Fear of damage from heavy rains northwest had a good deal to do today with an advance in the value of wheat. The market closed strong at ¾c to 1⅜c above last night. Corn gained 1c to 1⅛@1⅜c, oats finished unchanged to ⅛c higher and provisions down 2½@5c to 27½c.

For the first time this season, anxiety as to the spring crop became the leading influence affecting the wheat market.

The fact was generally appreciated that the next few weeks would be a critical time in the spring wheat belt and that excessive moisture formed an element of danger especially as twelve hours downpour throughout Minensota and the Dakotas was said to have followed almost daily rains since the beginning of May. There was also a renewal of misgivings in regard to the effect of recent frosts in the northwest. Most of the strength from these sources showed itself in the last hour of the session.

Quite a severe break in the wheat market preceded the final bulge. An upward tendency at the start was for a while more than offset by news that harvest had begun in Kansas with weather of an unexpectedly favorable sort, which promised to continue until after Sunday at least. Subsequently rumors of European buying of new crop winter grades helped to bring about a rally.

Bulls controlled the corn market from the outset. Adverse crop reports from Iowa and Nebraska were emphasized by similar advices from other states, notably from Missouri. Demand from the seaboard grew much more liberal and country offerings diminished. In oats, the feature was selling pressure on the September delivery. Several big commission houses led the bear attack on that option.

Lower prices for hogs weakened provisions. On the decline, packers came to the support of lard and ribs but seemed to neglect pork.

WAR SPECIALTIES AGAIN SCORE GREATEST ADVANCES OF SESSION

Dealings in Stocks Would Have Been More Impressive Had the Movement Shown Greater Breadth.

New York, June 12.—Dealings in stocks today would have been more impressive had the movement shown greater breadth. Most of the standard shares were neglected, activity and greatest advances again converging about war specialties and other stocks more or less remotely within that special class. In the more direct war issues, Bethlehem Steel preferred rose to the new high price of 119½, with smart advances in the common stock, New York Air Brake, General Electric and half a score of other industrial and equipments sharing in the manufacture of munitions of war. Motors were relatively inactive though firm. Seasoned railway shares were up a point and United States Steel also held steady until the close when pressure wiped out much if not all their early advantage. Wheeling was heavy throughout but the first preferred stock gained five points.

In their bearing upon industrial conditions a new high export quotation of 20½ cents for copper of the best grade and a local rise in lead to 7 cents were the chief features of the session. More gold was received from Canada, making the return flow of the metal from all sources since January 1st approximately $100,000,000.

Actual bank loans expanded almost $16,000,000 during the week with a cash gain close to $16,500,000 reserves increasing about $8,900,000.

JENKINSON-BODE COMPANY

CLOVER LEAF CASUALTY CO.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT BY ILLINOIS INSURANCE DEPARTMENT

During the month of May a very full and detailed examination of the books and accounts of the Clover Leaf Casualty Company was made at its Home Office in Jacksonville, Illinois. This examination was conducted under the personal direction of Mr. Lucius Pfouts who is probably one of the most experienced and capable insurance auditors there is in the country, having been with the Illinois Department for nearly twenty-five years auditing the accounts of insurance companies in all parts of the United States.

At this time the capital of the Clover Leaf Casualty Company was increased to $125,000.00, and the increase in capital has been placed in farm loans at less than one-half valuation.

The books of the company show that disability claims have been paid to policy holders amounting to one quarter of a million dollars, ($250,000.00.)

The following is a synopsis of the report made to the Illinois department in regard to the Clover Leaf Casualty Company.

"To Hon. Rufas M. Potts,
Insurance Superintendent,
Springfield, Ill.

"Sir:

"I have the honor to report that in pursuance to your instructions I have made an examination of he conditions and affairs of the Clover Leaf Casualty Company at its home office in Jacksonville, Illinois."

"The Clover Leaf Casualty Company deposited with the Illinois department in May, 1912, $100,000.00 in approved securities, and has regularly filed with the department a financial statement at the close of the years 1912, 1913 and 1914, showing its transactions and conditions for these respective years."

"I verified its statement of December 31st, 1914, with its ledger accounts, and here with submit the following statement, showing its transactions up to and including May 20th, 1915, also showing its conditions on that latter date:"

Uncarned premiums	3,771.87
Advance premiums	1,200.00
Total	$13,359.21
Capital paid up $125,000.00
Surplus over liabilities 22,469.50
$147,469.50
Surplus as to policy holders	$147,469.50
Total liabilities	$160,828.71

"Since December 31st 1914, the capital stock has been increased to $125,000.00. The additional amount of $25,000.00 has been paid in and is now possessed by the company in mortgage loans and certificates of deposit issued by reputable national and state banks of Illinois. I examined these investments, and fully itemized the same in schedule hereto attached."

Assets.

"The company has on deposit with the insurance department at Springfield, Illinois, mortgage loans in amount of $100,000.00. The other mortgages of $10,800.00 and certificates of deposit of $14,200.00 are in possession of the company as above stated."

The deposit in bank not on interest represents the active or checking account, and is verified by a statement (herewith attached) from the cashier of the Ayers National Bank of Jacksonville, Illinois."

"I find the total admitted assets to be $160,828.71."

Liabilities.

"A very careful inspection of a large number of its claims paid, discloses unusual promptness in settlement of adjusted claims, and its records appear to be complete as to claims, reported, each claim being given a number as soon as notice is received. I feel satisfied that all claims are recorded, and that efforts are made by repeated correspondence to bring all claims to a speedy and satisfactory conclusion. The average settlement is made by draft in from seven to ten days after claim is received."

"The largest amount of insurance on any one risk is $5000.00 for accident and $100.00 per month for health and accident benefits."

"It is authorized to transact business in the states of Illinois, Kansas, Missouri, Indiana and Ohio."

"I find its books and records are complete in detail, and with a few additional ledger accounts suggested by me, and agreed upon by its management, will result in giving a more intelligible system of accounts, and saving of labor."

"Its affairs are well managed by experienced persons. All claims appear to receive prompt attention, and technicalities so common in this line of business appear to be avoided although it insists upon the terms of its contracts, especially as to change of occupation, in determining the benefits to be paid."

Respectfully submitted,
Lucius Pfouts,
Chief Examiner.

Big Development on Drainage Work Along Illinois River

Few people realize the magnitude of the Drainage work that has already been done and that still is under process of construction along the Illinois river. When work now under way is completed there will be practically a chain of drainage districts from Beardstown to Pearl. These drainage districts will place thousands of acres of land formerly of no value whatever under cultivation. This land after drainage is the best land in the state of Illinois.

One thing that is not generally known is that nearly all of the work along the Illinois river has been done by the late C. W. Brown, who was the pioneer in the field, the Jacksonville Engineering company and the Caldwell engineering company.

The Jacksonville Engineering company has had a large amount of work along the Illinois river. Several contracts have been completed and others are under way. This company has charge of the Scott County Drainage and Levee district, Big Lake Drainage and Levee district, Big Swan Drainage and Levee district, Meredosia Lake Drainage and Leveee district. In addition to this the company has completed plans for the Kelly Lake Drainage and Levee district in Illinois and the Riverland Levee district located in Pike County, Missouri, north of Louisiana.

All of this work except the Riverland district is located on the Illinois river. The extent of the work being carried on in drainage may be partially realized when the figures in the Illinois districts are studied. The five Illinois districts total 50,900 acres. The total acreage of the Pike County, Missouri district is 7,600 acres. The total cost of the Illinois districts is over $850,000. The cost of the Missouri district will be nearly $200,000.

There is considerable interest locally in the Riverland Drainage district from the fact that John Cherry is one of the largest land owners. Mr. Cherry has over five hundred acres in the district. He, together with four other men have practically all of the land in the district. Plans and specifications for this district have been completed and the matter is already in court. As soon as court proceedings are completed work will begin.

The plans and specifications for the Kelly Drainage and Levee district also have been completed. This district also is going through court proceedings. This district is located in Schuyler county four miles north of Browning. It will drain 1,000 acres. It will require four miles of levee and one and one quarter miles of ditch. The building of this district will require the removal of 347,000 cubic yards of earth. The pumping station will be equipped with an electrically driven centrifugal pump capable of a discharge of 16,000 gallons of water per minute.

The Scott county Drainage district is situated on the east side of the Illinois river. It begins two and one half miles north of Valley City and extends south five and one half miles. This district is completed. The levee is twelve miles long and it contains twelve miles of ditches, requiring the removal of 1,250,000 cubic yards of earth. It is equipped with a 45 inch pump capable of a discharge of 45,000 galons per minute and one 24 inch pump capable of a discharge of 16,000 gallons per minute.

The Big Lake Drainage district also is completed. It is located in Schuyler county on the west side of the Illinois river about seven miles southwest of Bath. The district contains 3200 acres of which 2,50f acres was composed of lakes and was not in cultivation at all. The total cost of this improvement was $135,000. It requires the moving of 874,500 cubic yards of earth to complete this levee and the ditches The pumping station is equipped with two Manistee pumps, each capable of pumping 124,000 gallons of water per minute against a static head of 24 feet.

Big Swan drainage district is located in Scott county. It is about five and one-half miles down stream from Valley City and extends along the river for a distance of seven miles. The total length of the levee is twelve and one quarter miles and it drains approximately 12,000 acres. There also is fourten and one half miles of open ditches and five miles of large tile. There has been three assessments on this district the last being for raising and strenthening the levee. The levee is being built five feet higher than highest water mark ever recorded, that of 1844. This improvment cost $312,000 or an average of $26.00 per acre. The pumping station is equipped with two centrifugal pumps, one 45 inch and one 24 inch.

The Meredosia drainage district is situated on the east side of the Illinois river two miles north of Meredosia. It contains 2,700 acres. This improvement is in course of construction and will cost $128,000. It will be equipped with two 24 inch centrifugal pumps with a total capacity of 32,000 gallons.

These improvements and their magnitude no doubt will be a surprise to many who have no idea of the work that has been done along these lines the last few years. Even close at home in the last five years considerable work of this character has been done. Among them is the Indian Creek drainage district which was constructed under the supervision of the late C. W Brown and the auvaisterre creek district which is completed so far as possible at the present ime. There is no doubt but that this ditch will eventually be carried further. The Caldwell Engineering company directed this improvement.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORK.

J. R. Hastings, missionary of the American Sunday School Union has returned from several days work in Cass county. Last Thursday night he organized a Sunday school of about fifty members in the old Christian church building at Philadelphia. He gave an address at the Cass County Sunday school convention, which was held at Chandlerville the 9th and 10th, and had the misfortune of being caught in the heavy rain, but found the roads pretty fair Friday evening. One spot between Jacksonville and Arcadia was the worst on the road, where the mud was almost hub leep for about one hundred yards.

IS IMPROVING.

E. O. Mayer, foreman of the Journal who has been ill at Our Savior's hospital is improving. It is expected that he will be able to sit up in a few days.

In buying CREX "don't be Sold"

When you ask for a CREX rug be sure you get one. "Be from Missouri"—make the salesman show the name CREX on the side binding. If it isn't there it isn't a CREX. If it isn't a CREX you are being cheated.

Substitutes are sold—and so are the purchasers. When a dealer tries to sell you another grass rug as being "just as good," it is because he is making a larger profit on an inferior article.

CREX was the first wire-grass rug made and is still first in durability, beauty and sanitary perfection. Clean, cool, inexpensive—yet always dependable.

Holds no dirt nor germs. Needs no beating—simply shaking. Made in a variety of artistic designs and colors, and in various sizes.

BEWARE OF ALL SUBSTITUTES. Shun the cheap Japanese rugs of questionable sanitation; they have been aptly called the "yellow peril."

BOOSTER FOR TOWN.

The Macon (Mo.) Chronicle has the following to say of I. M. Bunce of this city:

"When I. M. Bunce, the talented publisher of the Jacksonville (Ill.) Farm, heard of the new boom that Macon had taken on because of the motor factory, he rushed over to Macon and instantly gave orders for the construction of a new front on the Scrutchfield barn and livery stable which he owns. The construction will be in harmony with the demands of good business architecture and will add to the appearance of Bourke street.

"I am mighty glad to see Macon take on new life", remarked Mr. Bunce in the presence of his intimate friend, John Murphy, who bowed approvingly to all Mr. Bunce said. "I have always thought that when you got the right start great things could be done here. The town has an ideal location and it deserves to grow. There are lots of good farmers about Macon (here he looked up at Mr. Murphy) and you ought to get them interested in all your town enterprises. It's the farmer, you know, who is the backbone of this great nation."

DEAF ALUMNI HELD BUSINESS SESSIONS

REPORTS PRESENTED ON SEVERAL OF THEIR ENTERPRISES.

Fund for Home of Infirm Deaf is Growing Satsifactorily—Anti-Imposter Bill Likely to Pass—Reception Saturday Night—Special Services Today.

The alumni association of the School for the Deaf had its meeting in the chapel at the State School Saturday morning with President Wm. I. Tilton in the chair. The invocation was pronounced by Rev. Henry Rutherford of Chicago and then committees were appointed on resolutions: Alva Jeffords, Mrs. Carlson, Mrs. Towne and Mr. Maxwell; on necrology, Mrs. Dougherty and Miss Roper.

As the reunions of the schools for the deaf in Michigan and North Dakota were in session congratulatory telegrams were exchanged. President Nelson of the Iowa institution was present and spoke in terms of much praise of the Illinois school and the present gathering. The committee on revision of the constitution appeared and made its report through Mr. Jeffords.

Mrs. Daisy Trig Falkner read the alumni poem.

The oration was delivered by Edward Heber of Springfield, subject, "Life insurance for the deaf." The gentleman is connected with a well known company in Springfield and is well qualified to speak on the subject. President Wm. I. Tilton then read his annual address which was a fine document and was well received and fully appreciated. This closed the morning session.

Afternoon.

At two p. m. the state association convened in the chapel with Rev. Philip J. Hazenstab of Chicago, president, in the chair. The president gave his annual address which held the close attention of all present and was well received.

The report of E. P. Cleary for the managers of the home for infirm deaf was read. The fund now amounts to $12,410.05 and is still growing. The committee on legislation reported efforts in behalf of the anti-impostor bill and a telegram from Representative Lyon was read and stated the bill would be brought up before adjournment.

The oration was delivered by H. D. Snyder who took for his theme, Some things worth while and delivered a finished and eloquent production and held the close attention of his audience throughout.

At this point Prof. J. W. Swiler, now of Burlington, Iowa, entered and was received with heavy applause and cordial greetings and on invitation addressed the gathering paying a fine tribute to Dr. Gillett. The gentleman and his wife are visiting in the city a short time.

Baseball.

At four p. m., came the game of baseball between the Silent Athletic club of Chicago and the I. S. D. team of the institution. The game was a good one but the home boys were two much for the visitors and won with a score of three to nothing.

Evening.

In the evening the delegates of both associations were entertained in an informal reception and social by the Gailaudet club of Jacksonville. Frappe was served, Misses Kronkhite, Wagner and Gibson serving. Supt. Gillett told all to the boys and girls again and they seemed to take his advice and proceed to have a fine time all around. The grounds and parlors of the building were then thrown open and all was merry and happy. Greetings were exchanged and everyone seemed to enter fully into the happy spirit of the occasion.

Sunday Program.

At ten a. m. today in the chapel services will be conducted by Rev. Philip J. Hazenstab and Rev. Henry Rutherford, both of Chicago. In the afternoon committees will proceed to Diamond Grove cemetery and decorate the graves of Dr. Gillett and the teachers buried there.

Monday Program.

In the morning the state association will meet for business at which time officers will be elected, and all matters of business transacted. In the afternoon the alumni association will meet for the election of officers and the transaction of all business to come beort it. A prize will be given the person coming the longest distance to attend the reunion and another to the oldest graduate.

The Alumni Poem.

Back to the old school,
We're trooping today,
With hearts all a flutter,
And faces so gay
To greet 'neath its shelter
Loved school mates of old,
And feel we are children
Again in its fold.

Back to the old school
In old haunts so dear
Once again let us gather
From far and from near.
Once more at the old school
The thought ever sweet,
'Twas here we gained knowledge,
Life's lessons to meet.

Back to the old school,
How memory recalls;
The bright sunny school rooms,
And long study halls.
All day, then all evening
With lessons were spent,
Tho' more were quite likely
On mischief intent!

We find a few teachers
Of old are still here,
While many loved absent
In memory held dear.
They patiently taught us,
While we, it is true,
Oft shirked many lessons,
As all kiddies do!

Three cheers for the old schools
And this happy throng!
God bless you, God keep you,
As time glides along.
Then again to the old school,
Fair her fame ever be.
Year by year she grows dearer,
The old I. S. D.

NEW HOTEL PROJECT SUGGESTED BY ST. LOUIS MEN

Have Plan for Modern 100 Room Building and Say They Would Put in $30,000.

A representative of the Steinerger Construction company which makes a specialty of building hotels has been in the city for sevral days. This gentleman has been talking with various business men about the construction of a new hotel in Jacksonville. The company stands ready to invest $30,000 in the enterprise which it is estimated would cost $100,000.

The hotel, a plan of which together with the front elevation is in the Journal window, would contain 100 rooms. It would be modern in every respect. The representative of the Steinenger company went to St. Louis Saturday and will return in a few days to see what further can be done with the enterprise.

The company recently finished a fine hotel at St. Charles, Mo. and has two Illinois sites in contemplation. The plans suggested for a hotel here call for a modern building with one hundred rooms.

AUTOMOBILE GOES IN DITCH.

Edawrd Boston and family had a narrow escape Saturday evening about 10:30 o'clock when a car he was driving went into a ditch on the State road just east of the rock bridge. Fortunately all of the occupants escaped hurts except Mr. Boston who suffered an injury to his arm. It is not serious, however.

Mr. Boston had borrowed the car from his brother Samuel Boston, the mail carrier to take his family riding. Returning to town he was just coming down the hill east of the wagon bridge when in some manner he lost control of the car. The car turned over and the occupants were thrown out. Aside from a few broken spokes the car was not damaged. David Estaque went out and pulled the car into his garage.

EARL TAYLOR PLEADS GUILTY TO BOOTLEGGING

Young Man Arrested for Violation of Local Option Law—Ordered to Jail for 30 Days and to Pay Fine of $100 and Costs.

Earl Taylor was taken before Judge Thomson in the county court Saturday morning on the charge of bootlegging. He entered a plea of guilty and was fined $100 and costs the total being $120.85, and sentenced to the county jail for thirty days. Unless he pays the fine his period of incarceration will extend to about September 1.

The fine and sentence imposed by Judge Thomson are the limit under the law. There were five counts in the information filed by Chief of Police Davis but when Taylor expressed to States Attorney Tilton a willingness to plead guilty to one count it was decided to settle the case in this way. Taylor has been considered a persistent offender against the local option law but the necessary evidence against him was not forthcoming until recently.

The book has been translated into many languages and an edition in raised letters published for the blind. Mr. Michael's lecture is illustrated with 150 stereopticon views, and the public is invited to join with members of the order in hearing this lecture. No admission fee is to be charged.

NEW YORK PEOPLE MOTORING TO SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Etchison from New York City who are on their way to the Pacific coast were in Jacksonville Saturday. They came via Philadelphia, Baltimore, Pittsburg, Lima, Ohio and Richmond, Ind., via the Lincoln Highway from Richmond to Indianapolis over National Pike Ocean to Ocean trail. They had been on the journey a little less than five days. The first three days out they drove through pouring rain, over the Alleghanies through clouds so dense that it was almost impossible to see the road for miles. They encountered the worst roads over Cove mountain, about 90 miles of mud in Ohio and about 80 miles of the same kind of road in Illinois. The trip will take them through Kansas City, Salt Lake City through to Frisco. They are traveling in a Mitchell car and have averaged 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

A check has been kept on the travel over the New Santa Fe trail through Kansas and it shows that an average of one automobile party bound for San Francisco passes over the trail every eight minutes. At Atascardero, which is located about half way between San Francisco and Los Angeles on the new concrete state highway, a large tent city with every modern convenience has been established for the accommodation of exposition visitors and other California tourists. The capacity of this wonderful camping ground is about 1,000 people.

MAY HAVE TO RAISE SCHOOL TAX TO $2.

That an increase in the educational tax will be necessary in 1916 as a result of the cut of $2,000,000 in local real estate values by County Clerk Byers, is considered likely.

Members of the school board think that there is a possibility of a special election being called on April 9, 1916, to refer to the people the question whether the tax rate shall be increased from $1.50 to $2.—Springfield Register.

SOME HEAVY RAINS.

As already mentioned the rainfall was very heavy, 2.56 inches Thursday night according to the observation of George H. Hall, volunteer observer. September second, last year, there was a fall of 3.02 inches in a day but the ground was very dry and so most of the welcome fall soaked into the ground. The heaviest fall within years at all recent was December 18 and 19, 1895. On the first day 2.25 inches fell and the next 2.86 inches making more
